All Doubts of Harrison's Election Ended. The Republican National Committee Wild With Joy and Surprise.

The Greatest Victory Since 1868 in Store for the Party.

Full Review of the Election Situation—The Electoral College—States That are Sure or in the Doubtful Column.

REVIEW OF THE SITUATION. The Electoral College—Known Strength of the Parties—The Doubtful States.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] The Presidential election of 1892 is unique in being the first since the war in which so many doubtful States are admittedly at issue between the great political parties.

Ohio... 23 Oregon... 4 Pennsylvania... 32 Rhode Island... 4 Vermont... 4 Wisconsin... 12 Total... 172

THE DOUBTFUL STATES. The fifteen doubtful States enumerated at the beginning will cast the following electoral vote:

Alabama... 11 Colorado... 4 Nevada... 3 North Dakota... 3 South Dakota... 3 Nebraska... 3 Wyoming... 3 Idaho... 3 Montana... 3 New Mexico... 3 Arizona... 3 Utah... 3 Oregon... 4 Total... 123

Of the fifteen doubtful States, Nevada, with three electoral votes, is practically conceded to the People's party, thus leaving only fourteen States actively in dispute.

In addition to electing a President and a Vice-President, the people of the United States will next Tuesday elect 356 Congressmen, this being the number which, according to the reapportionment, is to compose the Fifty-third Congress.

IN THE EMPIRE STATE. New York, Nov. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] The National Campaign Committee have practically concluded their work, and many of those engaged here have gone home to vote.

THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE. The Electoral College this year will consist of 444 members, as follows:

Alabama... 11 Arkansas... 7 California... 9 Colorado... 4 Connecticut... 4 Delaware... 3 Florida... 4 Georgia... 5 Idaho... 3 Illinois... 12 Indiana... 13 Iowa... 7 Kansas... 10 Kentucky... 13 Louisiana... 8 Maine... 4 Maryland... 10 Massachusetts... 15 Michigan... 10 Minnesota... 10 Mississippi... 9 Missouri... 10 Montana... 3 Nebraska... 8 Nevada... 3 New Hampshire... 3 New Jersey... 10 New Mexico... 3 New York... 36 North Carolina... 12 North Dakota... 3 Ohio... 23 Oklahoma... 3 Oregon... 4 Pennsylvania... 32 Rhode Island... 4 South Carolina... 7 South Dakota... 3 Tennessee... 12 Texas... 12 Virginia... 12 Washington... 4 West Virginia... 6 Wisconsin... 12 Wyoming... 3 Total... 444

THE STATES ADMITTED TO BE DEMOCRATIC. The States admitted to be Democratic are the following:

Arkansas... 7 California... 9 Colorado... 4 Connecticut... 4 Delaware... 3 Florida... 4 Georgia... 5 Idaho... 3 Illinois... 12 Indiana... 13 Iowa... 7 Kansas... 10 Kentucky... 13 Louisiana... 8 Maine... 4 Maryland... 10 Massachusetts... 15 Michigan... 10 Minnesota... 10 Mississippi... 9 Missouri... 10 Montana... 3 Nebraska... 8 Nevada... 3 New Hampshire... 3 New Jersey... 10 New Mexico... 3 New York... 36 North Carolina... 12 North Dakota... 3 Ohio... 23 Oklahoma... 3 Oregon... 4 Pennsylvania... 32 Rhode Island... 4 South Carolina... 7 South Dakota... 3 Tennessee... 12 Texas... 12 Virginia... 12 Washington... 4 West Virginia... 6 Wisconsin... 12 Wyoming... 3 Total... 444 electors by about twenty thousand. The Democratic managers concede this as probable, but think it possible, in view of the uncertain attitude of a large proportion of the vote, that the result on the Presidential ticket may be a surprise.

CONCEDED TO BE REPUBLICAN. The States admitted to be Republican are:

It is thought from most careful estimates that the Democratic ticket will have to lead Cleveland 18,000 votes to elect Haile, the Republican nominee for Governor. It is difficult to find a Democrat who believes it possible for Haile to defeat Russell, and it is equally difficult to find a Republican perfectly confident that he will do so.

Arkansas advises indicate a quiet election, with about the average vote. Opposed to the Democratic national ticket is a combination ticket composed in equal parts of Republican and People's party candidates for electors.

The fusion of Democrats and the People's party has brought about a doubtful condition in Kansas for the first time in the history of the State. Republicans do not want to see their activity and reticence gives evidence of nervous apprehension.

The close of the campaign in Nebraska shows affairs very complicated. While there are three sets of electoral tickets, the spectacle is presented of the Democratic managers doing everything in their power to keep their candidates from securing votes.

Conservative estimates give Montana a majority of 10,000. The Republican ticket will elect the Governor. The balance of the State ticket will be divided between the three parties.

Michigan is watched with more than usual interest, as both parties claim the electoral vote of the State. The brilliant victory of Gov. Peck two years ago is admitted to have been entirely due to the preponderance of State issues, and the chief question this year is now that the Bennett parochial school law.

That Minnesota should ever become a doubtful State would not be believed a few years ago, and yet that is what the Democratic State Committee is claiming tonight. They claim the election of D. W. Lawler for Governor, and assert a firm belief in the choice of four electors.

Chairman Green of the South Dakota Republican Committee, places the Republican plurality in the State at 15,000, and the other party leaders agree with him in the prediction. The Democrats and Independents, however, are confident of success.

In Idaho there is great uncertainty regarding the result. The Democrats and Republicans both claim the State, while the Populists are scarcely less confident.

In Maine the Republican plurality at the special election in September may fairly be expected to reach the same

THE BULLETIN

The political situation, as shown by telegrams from all over the country, indicates a sweeping Republican victory on Tuesday. The threatened great strike at New Orleans is hanging fire so far.

The lams case resulted in the acquittal of the officers who punished him. Kild's band ambushed a detachment of Mexican troops and killed two officers. The cruiser Olympia was successfully launched at San Francisco. More records were lowered on the Stockton track. The German Military Bill will probably pass the Reichstag.

Silkwood defeats Our Dick in straight heats and lowers his record to 2:08 3-4. The United States deputy marshals making it warm for the "stuffers"—Numerous arrests looked for today. Another counterfeiter convicted before Judge Ross. The Hill-Brinkley scandal partially aired in court. The Stewart Hotel at San Bernardino totally destroyed by fire. The Dukes treated to another shut-out by the Angels. News from neighboring counties.

The Western State to which all eyes have turned since the opening of the campaign has been Illinois. Two years ago the school question and tariff issue gave the State to the Democrats, and this year the discussion of the first of these issues accentuated by hope of its prominence holds out hope to the Democrats of success.

The chances are that Fifer will carry the State outside of Cook county and Aldfield will have a good majority in Chicago, and whichever of them is elected will only have a moderate majority.

Besides Presidential electors to be chosen by the voters of Ohio, a secretary, two judges of the Supreme Court, clerk of the Supreme Court, twenty-one members of Congress and county officers are to be chosen. While leading Democrats at times claimed Ohio for Cleveland, there is no settled feeling that there will be any change in Ohio's place as a Republican State in a Presidential year.

All issues in Colorado are subordinated to the silver question. Ninety-five percent of the Democrats in the State endorsed the Weaver ticket, and there are practically but two tickets in the field—Republican and People's party. The Weaver party claims the State by from 10,000 to 15,000. The Republicans claim the State by from 10,000 to 15,000. The entire Populist State ticket will go, too, with him.

That Minnesota should ever become a doubtful State would not be believed a few years ago, and yet that is what the Democratic State Committee is claiming tonight. They claim the election of D. W. Lawler for Governor, and assert a firm belief in the choice of four electors.

Chairman Green of the South Dakota Republican Committee, places the Republican plurality in the State at 15,000, and the other party leaders agree with him in the prediction. The Democrats and Independents, however, are confident of success.

WISE IN TIME.

New York Democrats Abandon Their Bluff.

Tammany Concludes Not to Oppose the Federal Government.

Election Supervisors Will Be in the Polling Booths.

Prospect of a Conflict of Authority in Alabama—A Sheriff Defies the United States Marshal in Insulting Language.

By Telegram to The Times. New York, Nov. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] United States Commissioner Buell was busy this morning swearing in Federal deputies to serve at the election in this city. It is estimated that fully 1400 will be sworn in by this evening. United States Marshal Jacobus says that he does not know how many men he will have, but that there will be at least one for each precinct, of which there are 1135.

It is rumored that the Federal grand jury is considering John I. Davenport's charges, and is about to act in the cases of three city officers said to be accused of abetting false registration and colonization.

The Tammany Hall committee of lawyers received an immediate reply from United States Marshal Jacobus to the letter sent to him yesterday afternoon. Jacobus quotes section 2022 of the Revised Statutes in support of his right to arrest persons before their ballots are deposited.

A circular of instructions to election officers, prepared by Gen. Rodenbaugh, chief of the Bureau of Elections, was placed before the police commission at an executive session yesterday afternoon. At that time the circular contained instructions not to permit United States supervisors of election to remain inside the guard rails at the various polling places. The circular also instructed the police to arrest persons in the act of depositing his ballot.

The Sheriff of Macon County Defies Federal Authority. MONTGOMERY (Ala.), Nov. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] It becomes more and more apparent that there may be a serious clash between the State and Federal authorities in Alabama Tuesday. United States Marshal Walker has appointed deputy marshals in many precincts. This Gen. Shelley holds to be without authority and advises Democrats to arrest and jail marshals who attempt to enter polling places or place themselves within thirty feet of the polls. A serious clash seems inevitable.

W. S. Walker, United States Marshal at Montgomery, says that he is just in hand in reply to a letter from a pointed deputy sheriff at each voting place in the county, with positive written instructions to arrest all persons in the act of depositing their ballots. I am quite sure they will do their duty. I am quite sure they will do their duty. I am quite sure they will do their duty.

P. S.—I intend to do my full duty as Sheriff as nearly as I know how, and don't intend to be bulldozed or bluffed off by anyone. There may be men enough to kill me, but there are not enough to scare or bulldoze me in this county or in any other, and you had better instruct your deputies of their duty. If you have a right to send any there or rather to appoint them, I don't object to your sending as many as you want to so far as I am concerned, but they must try to intimidate my deputies by threats, etc.

College Football Games. SPRINGFIELD (Mass.), Nov. 5.—The football game today was bitter for Harvard, who succeeded in beating Cornell by the close score of 20 to 14, after a very hard-fought game. Allowing for Cornell's excellence the fact remains that the Harvard team is in poor shape to meet Yale.

REGISTRATION FRAUDS.

The Officers Making It Warm for the "Stuffers." Another Arrest Last Night, and Others Likely to Follow Tomorrow. At Least One of the Deputies to Be Taken into Custody.

United States Chief Supervisor Flint has decided to issue a large number of warrants for fraudulent registrations early tomorrow morning. The deputy marshals will be kept busy serving warrants in cases where the parties are known and can be found, but in the majority of instances it is conceded that the party registering fraudulently cannot be arrested until he presents himself at the polls on Tuesday. This is simply on the ground that his registered residence is a "blind" and his name an assumed one.

Where there has been a voter's name on the list, and the name and address of a voter is not straight, detectives have been employed to investigate the case, and where grounds are given and they are good, the party attempting to vote will have a very difficult task to run the gauntlet as between the United States inspectors and deputy marshals.

The county has been thoroughly canvassed, and in every precinct a list of doubtful voters will be in the hands of proper officials.

It was learned yesterday that one of the Democratic deputy clerks, who had outside registering turned in 545 names, and on investigation it is learned that over half of the names are bogus. There is hardly a doubt that what the United States Marshal will have the deputy in custody before many hours.

Some queer names have been handed by the registrars. For instance, one Democratic deputy had in his list a name Eugene Baxter, who is not known in the neighborhood, and will attempt to vote. Possibly he would stand a better chance if he tried it in the First Ward, as the name (Eugene Baxter) is registered as residing at No. 832 East Water street (a street which never existed). There are several like Baxter, and, although thoroughly investigated as to residence and occupation, they have not yet been found.

A number of suspects are being constantly shadowed, and if they attempt to vote they will be gathered in. From a careful examination it is estimated that fully 40 per cent of the "shady" registrations are fraudulent. Thirty per cent of the cases where the residence of the voter is not correctly given in the register are attributable to careless mistakes on outside deputies, and 30 per cent of the cases are attributed to the baseness of certain outside deputies who were after the 6 cents a name for registering.

The Woman Suffrage Association met in regular session, on Tuesday afternoon last, in Temperance Hall. The president, Mrs. Alice M. McDonald, presided. The increased attendance at each meeting shows a growing interest in the movement.

After the regular routine of business was disposed of, the association proceeded to the discussion of the issues of the day. The discussion was a most interesting one, and was well attended.

The society received new accessions to its membership, whereupon an adjournment was taken until the first Tuesday in December.

Two Small Fires. At 4:45 yesterday afternoon a fire broke out in Peter Cheliet's barn on Sunset avenue and Alameda street. The department reached the scene before much damage was done, and saved the barn. The loss will not exceed $50.

At 7:12 o'clock last evening a lamp exploded in R. B. Lovell's house at 1133 Maple avenue. No damage was done.

Johnson, the Western flyer, claims that he thought once he shielded on the sulky, that he was in a great record-breaking trial, more for protection from the mud and dust from the horse's heels than as a wind break.

Too Much Ice Cream. C. H. Roberts, the 32-year-old Pacific Coast, New Haven, Conn., says: "I suffered a great deal one hot evening last week when I ate too much ice cream for supper and there seemed to be an internal conflict going on. A traveling man said that he believed would relieve me, and producing a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, for sale at all drug stores, he gave me a dose. I felt better, and in a few minutes took another dose which entirely relieved me. I have since learned that this is a worthy recommendation and that it should be kept in the house during the summer months. It is a most reliable remedy for all cases of Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea. For sale at all drug stores. Chamberlain & Son, Druggists, 300 N. Main st.

For President, BENJ. HARRISON.
For Vice-President, WHITELAW REID.

Now let everybody get into the game!

Politzer's sack will not save Grover.

Be in time! BE PREVIOUS! VOTE EARLY!

The hat stores are preparing for a turn-out.

GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN is out for Cleveland. That does settle it.

They will pull themselves together when the robins nest again.

It is only two whole days until election, and Jerry Simpson still lives.

GROVER'S next letter will be dated from the headquarters of Salt Creek.

We propose also to hang that wildcat's hide on the fence alongside Grover's.

WOULDN'T it be fun to hear the man who manufactures roofbacks tell a fish story?

That free-trade plank will be kicked into splinters next Tuesday. Get in, brethren, and give it a lick for luck.

I'm a tiger from York State. Don't you hear me howl? Y-e-o-w! Y-e-o-w!

T. T.

STAMP ME. Vote, stamp with care. Stick it down in the little square. And don't go giving your vote in the air—You dander!

WHEZ the Stuffed Prophet Drops with that awful thud the little fishes in Buzard's Bay will get frightened like everything.

Those colonels have dribbled back from Chicago, and now one can easily feel that the State of California is leveling again.

GROVER CLEVELAND is the great attitudinizer, but just like your eye into the attitude he strikes next Tuesday! It will be lovely.

HARRIET MONROE is going to spring a book of alleged poems on us; but she ought to wait until the trouble blows over about that ode.

MILWAUKEE people rejoice in the fact that none of her breweries were burned in the big fire. It helps them to beer up under their losses.

The anti-vit is also taking a hand in it. All right, get in, everybody and everything, and let's have a time of it that will be remembered by the oldest inhabitant.

The season when the Italian case has to get in and do a little hard work has arrived, and the Intelligent Compositor bids the party and violates the third commandment.

ROCK-AMY, Wayne MacVeagh, on the tree-top.

In the Free Trade winds see the cuss flop.

Pretty soon now, though, you'll hear him squall.

As down comes Grover C., Adlai and all.

NUMEROUS errors are found existing in the Great Register as to street numbers, etc. Go tomorrow, examine the Register and see if you are properly located. If not, be prepared with credible witnesses to the polls to prove your right to vote. THIS IS IMPORTANT.

No "blue-dog" money—no wildcat banking methods—no free-trade—no stuffed prophet—no Adlai with a jag—that is where the country will stand large after tomorrow, to be announced by large, robust Australian ballots, decorated with crosses placed thereon with the little rubber stamp.

VOTERS are advised to stamp a cross opposite the name of each of the nine candidates for Presidential electors, rather than use one cross for the entire group. Then there can be no question about how your vote will be counted—OTHERWISE THERE MAY BE. Take the nine, in a single group (the REPUBLICANS) and you will be dead right and no mistake.

D. W. COQUILLETT writes to THE TIMES that he was not present at the recent meeting of the Horticultural Commissioners, and did not render a report, as stated in the published proceedings. He says he found the newly imported lady birds breeding in Alameda, as well as at Santa Barbara. Four hundred insects, not colonies, were sent to Santa Barbara.

The "Oval" published at Nordhoff, Ventura county, by Leverett H. Mesick, celebrated its first birthday on the 26th ult. It is a bright, clean, spicy paper, and deserves to live. We are glad to learn that it is financially "on its feet," and enters upon its second year with excellent prospects. The editor's review of the situation has a lot of sense "into" it.

is 2 cents a pound; on figs, 2 1/2 cents; and we enjoy similar protection in grapes and grape products, on oranges, lemons, olive oil, linseed oil, broom corn, hops, tobacco and other things raised in California. Why should we waive any of these advantages for an uncertainty?

Under the operation of the sugar bounty provided for in the McKinley bill, California has taken the first rank in the Union as a maker of beet sugar. We produced this season more of this staple than all of the other States put together. The Democrats are down on the sugar bounty; they would repeal it and destroy this promising California industry.

Our State does not hold the leading rank in wool-growing that it once did, but still produces a vast quantity. The Democrats are for free wool. They would take away all the advantages which our growers enjoy in American markets and destroy this industry, too. Take it all in all, we cannot see how any man interested in the prosperity of California, whether he is a producer or not, can favor the Democratic policy of free trade. It means that the growing importance of our State shall be nipped in the bud. It means death to our most flourishing industries. It means for us hard times, bankruptcy of business men, farmers and manufacturers; it means depreciated land values and loss of immigration. It means poverty and wretchedness; the destruction of our best hopes. Californians, don't vote for such a state of affairs; don't commit financial suicide!

James McLaughlin.
The Republican candidate for District Attorney has been assailed by the organs and orators of both the Democratic and People's parties more viciously than any man on the ticket; but the people of this county know that he is industrious and competent, and has made a first-class office, and will reflect credit on the duties of his arduous and responsible position, and goes before the people on his record. Everything points to his triumphant election on Tuesday, along with the remainder of the ticket.

The following affidavit settles one of the principal falsehoods circulated against McLaughlin by his antagonist, H. C. Dillon:
A. E. Davis, S. M. Perry, H. C. Hubbard and E. A. Forrester, being duly sworn, depose and say that they are and have been members of the Board of Supervisors during the whole time that James McLaughlin has been District Attorney of the county of Los Angeles; that not one dollar has ever been paid out for legal services rendered for the county in aiding Mr. McLaughlin in the discharge of his official duties; that Mr. McLaughlin, at the commencement of his term, expressed a wish that he be allowed to alone discharge the duties of District Attorney; that certain county matters then in the hands of Campbell, Houghton & Silent were by those gentlemen withdrawn from, at the wish of Mr. McLaughlin, and he (Mr. McLaughlin) took charge of the business, whereupon the board paid Campbell, Houghton & Silent for such services as they had rendered the county up to the time of Mr. McLaughlin entering upon the discharge of the duties of said office.

A Funny Circular.
One of the cheekiest things we have seen in a long time is a circular distributed about the streets the other day, claiming that the recent victory for water bonds by a vote of four to one was the victory of the People's party. The People's party had about as much to do with that issue as the Tory party of England. It happened that a few members of the People's party living in this city voted for the bonds; but, just the same, a great many members of the Republican and Democratic parties in the city also voted for them. The city conventions of both the old parties warmly endorsed the bonds, and all of the candidates were committed to them. To say that the groundswell vote of more than four-fifths of the citizens of Los Angeles indicated the strength of the People's party is so ridiculous that it would make a wooden horse laugh. Those Populists are great jokers.

The Three Supervisors.
An organization of good citizens of this city and county, formed without reference to party, but composed of men of the Democratic, the Republican and other parties, and to party, and having for their aim only good order, clean government, and the just and necessary regulation of the liquor traffic in city and county, has issued two circulars, of which the following are the essential portions:

LOS ANGELES (CAL.) Nov. 1, 1892.
Our investigations as to the positions of candidates for the office of Supervisor at the coming election lead us to believe that the following may be depended on for securing proper temperance legislation. In the present disposition of parties, it becomes necessary to unite the friends of temperance upon these candidates in order to secure the ends we seek:
Second Supervisor District—A. W. Francisco.
Fourth Supervisor District—James Hay.
Fifth Supervisor District—W. H. Stockwell.
Please call your forces together and initiate work at once.
Owing to the liquor dealt in and endorsing and uniting upon the three candidates named (Collins, Brewer and Hanley, Democrats) we earnestly urge that all temperance people should concentrate on the three we have chosen, as we are satisfied they are most likely to be elected.

Very Respectfully,
J. C. SALISBURY, President.
A. C. SATHRENS, Secretary.

WALTER S. MOORE. Republican candidate for Senator, is commendably ambitious to be elected. He has for a long time past borne himself manfully and well, both personally and politically. He asks a fair field and an even chance in the race; and THE TIMES, waiving the past and looking to only the present and to the future, frankly appeals to an intelligent and just constituency to give him what he asks—to trust him and to elect him. He has brains, energy, industry and a good acquaintance with the needs of the city of Los Angeles and of his district. He has no honorable ambition to retrieve his fortunes and to win a name for himself and his family. In the way of that ambition we will not expend. We now believe it is right and expedient to take this position and trust to time for our justification.

In this spirit, then, we advocate the election of Walter S. Moore, and ask the people to vote for him. THE TIMES does not undertake to speak for him, yet we venture the prediction, on our own account, that, if elected, he will not betray the trust reposed in him by his constituents.

We are in receipt of a carefully prepared and convincing political circular by John R. Berry of San Diego, in answer to Mrs. E. V. Emery's "Seven Financial Conspiracies Which Have Enslaved the American People"—the book which our friends, the Populists, have tried to make a great deal of capital on. Mr. Berry answers Mrs. Emery's rather wild theories in a decorous way, and cites historical points to show that the alleged "great conspiracies" were no conspiracies at all. It is a good campaign document.

When you get to County Auditor in the list of candidates, let your trusty rubber stamp fall opposite the name of P. E. Lopez, the young Spanish-American and Republican nominee. His Democratic opponent, F. B. Colver, does not deserve the votes of either Democrats, Republicans, Populists or Progressives, as we have already shown. In addition to his other disqualifications, he is not known to possess the qualifications and experience necessary in this important office.

If you're waking, call me early, call me early, Frances dear,
For next Tuesday'll be the saddest day of all this sad, sad year,
For that is when they'll do me in the usual way.

O' Tru not queen of the May, Frank; I am not queen of anything! G. C.

The Democratic candidate for Vice-President always writes his name on the list register thus: "A. E. Stevenson." "Chicago Herald."
"Well, we've been saying that about Adlai ever since he was nominated, only we usually use a longer dash, and sometimes three of 'em."

THE Dubuque Herald says: "The veterans are hurrying to Cleveland." They are, they are, and they propose to lam the life out of him. Keep your optics on 'em next Tuesday and see how it is done.

Two shut-outs yesterday: Silkwood three straight hits against Our Dick, and Los Angeles Baseball Club against San José, 7 to 0. The country south of the Tehachapi is moving up!

They stuffed the Great Register, and now some little stuffing is being done to the jail register.

Levi's pants will not fit Adlai.

American Citizens!

Sublime the record of our glorious past; Written in grand deeds, in blood.

Like rivers, today we stand no medley Of mere States, but a unit formed of States. They making the whole, the indivisible Nation, Lincoln, the Moses of our struggling hosts; Grant, the great captain; Sherman, the brave.

Marcher to the sea, and Sheridan, who The tide of treason turned at Cedar Creek. Are beacon lights upon our starred page. And the brave armies fighting day by day And storm and flood, and winter's cold, or Summer's blasting heat, facing the cannon's Mouth, they helped to make us what today

Are, sovereign Americans, each man a king.

Making the laws that govern him. No land So great as ours, nor any land so free. Because we fought for peace, for unity, For human freedom. And if from the far heights of the stars, and winter's cold, or Summer's blasting heat, facing the cannon's Mouth, they helped to make us what today

Are, sovereign Americans, each man a king.

They saved, but still would cry "Protection for our industries."

Pacer Wood Just Misses Breaking the World's Record—Sport at Bay District—A Bookmaker Loses His Pile.

By Telegram to THE TIMES.

STOCKTON, Nov. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] Truman, the famous stallion by Electioneer, reduced his record to 2:12 today. His quarters' were 0:33, 1:04 1/2, 1:39, 2:12. His record was 2:13 1/2.

W. Wood, the pacer, went against his record of 2:07, and would have beaten the world's mark of 2:04 but for a bad break in the last eighth. His quarters were 0:31, 0:30 1/2, 0:32. He went to the half in 1:01 1/2; and to the three-quarters in 1:33 1/2. He was not tired when he broke, but went up when Walter Mahen, who was behind on the runner, called to the driver, Laferty, that he was beating the record. He will start again next week.

PROTECTION A BLESSING.

O'Donnell, the Strike Leader, Denounces Political Democrats.
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] John J. Burke of this city tonight gave out a letter received from Hugh O'Donnell, the well-known leader of the Homestead strikers, who says he was employed a number of years by Carnegie, and that he never had cause to complain until Frick was put in power and tried to disrupt the organization.

"A number of alleged champions of our cause," says O'Donnell, "who have been a source of constant injury to us, have been playing the part of demagogues before the people of the country, pretending that the Homestead strike was caused by the tariff. I was always a Republican and protectionist, and today am stronger than ever, and although I am in prison tonight because of the conduct of one man for the sake of myself and fellow workmen interested in the cause of American labor, I beg of them not to think for a moment that protection is not the greatest blessing that can be bestowed upon us."

LAWLESS LOUISIANA.

NATCHEZ (Miss.) Nov. 5.—John Hastings, alias John Mahogany, was delivered into the custody of two agents of the State of Louisiana here Wednesday. They reached Jonesville Wednesday night. Yesterday morning while they were guarding him a mob of masked men overpowered them, took the prisoner and hanged him. Within a week one white man and four negroes have been murdered. The murderer, his two sons and daughter paid the penalty with their lives.

Attempted Robbery.

J. H. Nicholson, a hard-looking customer, was arrested at the cellar saloon at the corner of Arcadia and Main streets, for attempting to rob another man. He was locked up in the city prison.

BET ON BEN!

figures, or a little larger ones, in November.

It is as certain as anything can be in politics that the electoral vote of South Carolina will be cast for Cleveland and Stevenson. There is little doubt a solid Democratic delegation, or rather partly fusionist, will be sent to Congress and a full Democratic State ticket elected. The seventh is the only doubtful district in the State, where George Murray, a colored Republican, opposes William Elliott, the Democratic nominee.

In Connecticut there are five State tickets in the field, and one must have a majority over all others to win. Both Republicans and Democrats claim the State with equal assurance.

The heavy money received by Democratic State tickets last month in the Georgia election insures the election of the Democratic electoral ticket, though it is probable the majority will be somewhat smaller than that received by the Democratic State ticket in October.

IOWA PROBABLY REPUBLICAN.

In Iowa the fact that State issues are subordinated to the great national questions tends to give the Republicans a significant advantage, and the Democrats are usually frank enough to admit that the chances favor the Republican party, although some Democrats still maintain confidence. There is apparently no significant growth of either the People's party or Prohibition party in the State, while on the national ticket the chances favor the Republicans. Indications are that the contest will be quite close on the State ticket. The Republicans are claiming eight out of eleven Congressional districts, but the Democrats concede only six.

The outlook in Indiana may be said to be decidedly Democratic as far as the national ticket is concerned, and the Democrats expect to elect a solid delegation to Congress, although claims to the contrary are made.

In addition to the full State ticket and Presidential electors all four parties in Missouri vote for Railroad Commissioner, three judges of the Supreme Court and two judges of the Court of Appeals. The sporting element is placing even money on 12,000 Democratic plurality.

The Tennessee State Democratic Committee had a poll made of the States, which indicates a plurality of from 40,000 to 50,000 for the Democratic electors, a plurality of 40,000 for the Democratic Governor, and a majority over all opposition.

In Wyoming the Democrats conducted an aggressive campaign, assisted by the People's party, with whom a coalition was effected by the Democrats supporting the Weaver electors, and the Populists throwing their strength to the Democratic State ticket. Non-partisans are of the opinion that the contest will be very close.

From Galveston comes word tonight that it has virtually closed the most exciting campaign ever known in Texas. George Clark, who leads on the wing of the Democratic party, is endorsed by the Republican party and will probably be elected. The Presidential election is all one way. Weaver and Harrison will get some votes, but Cleveland will roll up the usual majority as there is no division of the Hogg and Clark Democrats on President.

The Democratic State Committee in West Virginia claim the State safe for Cleveland, while some conservative Republicans say they consider it likely that Harrison will carry the State.

DEMOCRATIC LOSSES IN INDIANA.

In Indiana it seems almost inevitable that Democrats will lose some districts gained in the political avalanche two years ago, though they will probably retain a majority of the delegation from the State.

INMAN SPRINGS, Nov. 5.—It is impossible to forecast the result of the Presidential electors in this State. It is certain, however, that it will not go as an avalanche for either party. The Democrats are claiming it by 12,000 to 15,000. Republicans expect to carry it by 8000 to 10,000 and to gain five to seven Congressmen. The result will largely depend on the Populist vote, which is an unknown quantity. The Populist's claim 40,000. Conservative estimates put it at 25,000. Furthermore; the Populists claim large accessions since they cast 12,000 votes two years ago.

IN THE FAR WEST.

Washington's Vote Will Go to Harrison, and Idaho's too.
TACOMA (Wash.) Nov. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] It is uncertain which way Washington will go on the State ticket, though there is little doubt that the Harrison electors will receive a fair plurality. Interest centers in the election of the Governor and Legislature. Indications are that King, the largest county in the State, will give a good majority for McGraw (Rep.) for Governor, while Pierce will probably give nearly as large a majority for Wallace (Rep.) for Governor, being the chief exponent of the Seattle canal scheme will be voted against by nearly or quite a thousand Republicans in Pierce. The Legislature is to elect a successor to Senator Allen, who, though a candidate for reelection, is opposed by the anti-canals wing of the Republican party in Pierce. Washington will cast 65,000 votes.

Both parties have Launching a New Warship at the Union Iron Works.

Cruiser No. 6 Afloat and Christened "The Olympia."

Fifteen Thousand Spectators View the Ceremonies.

Enthusiasm Breaks Loose as the Mighty Vessel Glides into the Water—Description of the Cruiser and Her Armament.

By Telegram to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] Cruiser No. 6 was launched successfully at the Union Iron Works at high tide at 11:25 this morning. The launching was effected by an automatic device that liberated the vessel when a string was cut. At the same time a bottle of champagne was broken over the cruiser's prow as Miss Belle Dickie, daughter of George W. Dickie, manager of the iron works, christened the great vessel "The Olympia." The weather was fair and the launching was witnessed by 15,000 persons, a large number of these, including many civil, naval and military officials, being invited guests. Among the latter were Admiral Brown, Admiral Irwin, Capt. Johnson and Capt. Retter.

The crowd of people which attended the launching exceeded any which has been seen in that part of the city in which the Union Iron Works are located since the coast defense vessel, Monterey, was launched at the time of President Harrison's visit here in April, 1891. Several hours before it was time for the cruiser to slip off the ways, people began to travel toward the scene, and the streets leading to the shipyard were filled with long lines of crowded street cars and carriages and hundreds of pedestrians. A great number of special invitations had been issued, and there were probably two thousand people in the shipyard alone, in addition to the many more who occupied commanding positions on all streets and hillsides in the vicinity of the works, as well as on the small steamers and tugs in the bay.

A platform decorated with the national colors was built around the bow of the cruiser, and on this were representatives of the navy and army and the band of Admiral Brown's temporary flagship, the Thetis. The ceremonies were very brief. After a short prayer had been offered the last blocks which held the cruiser in position were knocked away, and as the hull began to move slowly down the ways, a bottle of wine was broken over the bow, and the band played a national air. Great shouts and hurrahs from the crowds of people, and noise from a hundred or more steam whistles, commenced as soon as the cruiser made the first movement, and continued until after she made the plunge into the water and floated easily, less than two lengths from the shore.

The vessel is of the protected cruiser type, exceeding in size any vessel of similar type in the United States service, and a majority of her class in foreign navies. Her length on the water line is 340 feet, length over all 344 feet; beam, 53 feet; mean draught, 21 feet six inches; displacement, 5,750 tons; guaranteed speed on trial, twenty knots, with sustained sea speed of nineteen knots. The cruiser has a coal-carrying capacity of 1,800 tons, which, at a ten-knot rate, would carry her 1,800 miles without re-coaling. Her displacement has been increased to introduce new protective features, including a belt of cellulose matter, which would stop to a great extent the flow of water through any opening that might be made in her armor by a hostile shell. She has three decks, including a protective deck extending the whole length of the vessel. The Olympia has a double bottom, and contains 150 water-tight compartments, the center ones being occupied by powerful engines. The turrets and guns are operated by hydraulic machinery. The two masts of the cruiser are each furnished with two military tops, the lower ones carrying two rapid firing guns, and the upper tops being provided with Mangin search lights.

The battery of the Olympia consists of four 8-inch breech-loading rifles, ten 5-inch rapid-firing guns, four 6-pounder rapid-firing guns and six torpedo tubes. Eighteen-inch Whitehead torpedoes are used. The outer armor of the vessel consists of steel plates to a thickness of from three to five and three-quarter inches, the barbettes having a thickness of four inches and the revolving turret of three inches. The cruiser carries 390 men. She was constructed under the appropriation approved by Congress September 7, 1888, and will cost, when completed, in the neighborhood of $1,800,000. Her hull was built under the superintendence of Naval Constructor A. W. Stahl, U.S.N., and the engines and boilers under the superintendence of Chief Engineer C. F. Kutz, U.S.N. The contract for construction of the vessel was awarded June 10, 1890.

KID'S BAND.

The Apaches Now Committing Depredations in Mexico.

They Ambush a Detachment of Diaz's Troops and Kill Two Officers—Five Hundred Men Now Sent in Pursuit.

By Telegram to The Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] A special from Deming, N.M., says: "A courier arrived here last night from Las Palmas, Mexico, and brought news of more Indian murders and depredations by Kid and his band of Apache renegades. In view of the depredation in old Mexico, the Mexican government sent a detail of the Fifth Regiment, numbering fifty men, from the city of Chihuahua to the supposed hiding places of the savages in the Sierra Madre Mountains. After hurried marches the troops reached the foothills Tuesday morning. They were riding along unsuspecting danger when they were attacked from ambush by the savages. Capt. D. V. Dorantes and Lieut. Garcia, who were riding in advance of the soldiers, were both shot through the head and instantly killed. "When the troops recovered from their surprise battle was given the Indians, but after a short skirmish, in which several soldiers were wounded, the renegades made their escape into the mountains. The troops pursued a short distance, but fearing another ambush, retreated. The news of the disaster was sent to the City of Mexico, and the government issued orders for 500 troops to pursue the murderers."

The New Army Bill Will Probably Be Passed.

Bismarck Relates More of His Startling Reminiscences.

The ex-Chancellor Criticized for Undignified Conduct.

Military Men and Journalists Still Talking of the Chance of War—Incipient Bread Riots Occur in Berlin.

By Telegram to The Times.

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—[Copyright, 1892, by the New York Associated Press.] During the coming week several important meetings of party leaders will be held in Berlin preliminary to the opening of the Reichstag. The general drift of political developments points to the government securing a majority for the Army Bill through a coalition of Conservatives, Centrists and members of the Reichspartei. Prince Bismarck's denunciations of the bill have failed to influence even the National Liberals. A meeting of National Liberals at Wurmberg took the strongest line of attack against the bill in declaring that Germany is unable to bear the increased taxation proposed. It was shown that a vast majority of the incomes of Prussian families were under 900 marks yearly. With regard to the tobacco tax it was shown that there has been a decline in receipts during the last half year of 54,000 marks compared with the previous half year. Receipts from sugar declined 1,740,000 marks. The decline in the receipts from these articles of common consumption is taken as proof that the people are already overburdened by taxation.

The Polish group in the Reichstag, which has hitherto been staunch supporters of the military project of the government, has weakened on the same grounds. Deducting the Polish vote the ministerialists are still confident they can carry the measures—184 to 164. About a score of votes are uncertain.

BISMARCK STILL TELLING TALES. Some of Bismarck's latest statements are denounced as fiction. The Vossische Zeitung calls them important mistakes. His assertion that the late Emperor William wanted to annex part of Saxony in 1860, and that Von Moltke urged an invasion of France in 1875, are both questioned. Among the episodes Bismarck tells now, is one about a Bonapartist agent who in 1871 came to him during the negotiations for peace and offered to go to Bordeaux with half a dozen resolute men and assassinate Gambetta and other members of the provisional government. Then the Emperor was to be recalled to France, the Germans holding the country until the empire was reestablished. Bismarck believed the project possible, but refused to agree, thinking monarchial France more dangerous to peace than a republic. The newspapers cut in expressions of regret at the undignified character of his utterance.

REVIVING WAR TALK. The Mittler Wochenblatt, in an article on the Army Bill, frankly states that in war the Russian army is so superior to the Austrian that Germany would be obliged to help Austria on the eastern frontier, while fighting France on the western frontier. She would be but feebly assisted by Italy, who would be unable to invade France, and who would have great difficulty in defending her own coasts from the French fleet.

MAJ. KLEIN, a military writer, contends that war is inevitable. The increased taxation by strengthening the army, he declares, will save the fatherland many millions of debt contracted by an unfortunate war. Both writers admit the immense advance in the military power of France and minimize the value of the alliance with Austria and Italy.

INCIDENTAL BREAD RIOTS. With the approach of winter the distress among the poor becomes more clamorous. A mob which collected in one of the poor quarters, threatened to pillage shops. They threw a police agent in a canal, whereupon a body of mounted police charged them and cleared the streets. Boatmen saved the agent. A large number of arrests were made.

IAMS LOSES.

The Militia Officers Acquitted on the Charge of Assaulting Him.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] When the court convened this morning the jury in the Iams case came in and asked leave to submit in writing a question which they did not wish to ask orally. After reading it Judge Porter told the jury that the subject of the inquiry was wholly immaterial. Any other action between the parties could not enter into the case. The judge continued as follows: As to the instructions given you to find the defendants not guilty of assault and battery, I propose that you shall obey the Court. You, of course, may ignore the instructions. You are the judges of fact and law; not law as you think it should be, but what it is. We have told you what the Supreme Court of the United States says the law is, and that is the law you want to take. If any man of this jury thinks he knows more than the Supreme Court of the United States, of course he will stick to his opinion. It is a shame, however, that a man with such profound knowledge should waste time in a jury-box.

The Court then warned the jury against the danger of being guided by feelings of prejudice, and the jury retired, returning shortly afterward with a verdict of "not guilty."

The verdict, however, adjudged that the defendants, Col. Hawkins and Streator, pay half the costs in the aggravated assault and battery case. Their counsel moved, in view of the Judge's charge, that this part of the verdict be set aside. The Court ordered it put in writing, but made no ruling on it.

The attorney for the prosecution now depends on a suit for damages to vindicate his client. Ten thousand dollars is asked, and the suit will be brought in the United States court, and will no doubt go to the Supreme Court, as both sides believe the question should be finally decided.

A CHICAGO LAWYER MURDERED. CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Anton M. Fugner, a patent lawyer, was shot dead this morning by James Dalton, a manufacturer of piano covers. According to Dalton's story they quarrelled over the ownership of a house and lot in Rogers Park, which they purchased jointly. Dalton claimed that he acted in self-defense. There were no witnesses to the tragedy.

Explanatory.

AT ALL TIMES we are in the lead. When it comes to giving the people beneath us never do things by halves, nor do we offer the public catch-penny baits, as is the custom of some of our would-be competitors, who throw out a snail to catch a dollar in return, and then claim to be philanthropists, when in reality they care more for a dollar than most men care for their lives.

When we give anything it is a gift free as air to one and all, and which every one is welcome to come and receive with out money and without price. Expense of pains have not been spared to make Tuesday night's entertainment it a glorious affair, long to be remembered and cherished in the minds of the people of Southern California, to whom we owe the phenomenal success we have achieved in the past and which has placed us on the topmost crest of the enviable wave called POPULARITY.

Local Republicans Close the Campaign Amid Great Enthusiasm.

Better Not Attempt to Question Col. Banbury's Integrity in His Own Town—Republicans Win at Baseball—Briefs.

By far the largest and most enthusiastic political meeting held in Pasadena this campaign was the closing Republican rally at Williams Hall last night. The hall and gallery were crowded to the utmost, and at 8 o'clock, when the meeting opened, it was difficult to obtain even standing room. The stage was very handsomely decorated with flags, bunting and flowers. In the rear hung a large photograph of President Harrison, while stretched across above the stage was the word "Protection," emblazoned on canvas in large letters. The exercises elicited great enthusiasm throughout. The Pasadena band was out in full force. The members were seated in front of the stage and furnished excellent music between the speeches.

The meeting was called to order by President J. A. Buchanan, of the local Republican club. On the stage inside the speakers were seated some of the leading Republican citizens of town.

Gen. H. A. Pierce of Garden Grove was introduced as the first speaker of the evening. The general spoke at considerable length, and his remarks proved him to be a man of great ability. After reviewing some of the grand achievements of the Republican party Mr. Pierce paid considerable attention to the charges made against the party by the Democrats, and pointed out numerous fallacies in its platform. The speaker's remarks were made up of sound arguments and carried with them the power of conviction. They were interrupted by frequent bursts of applause.

After a song by the glee club Judge Alexander Campbell of Los Angeles was introduced and made a characteristic address that commanded the close attention of all present.

FAKE INTERVIEW THAT FELL FLAT.
The Herald yesterday published a column of fake interviews with prominent citizens of town relative to the charges made by the sheet against Col. Banbury in his official capacity as County Treasurer.

The article aroused lively indignation among those whom the calumny reporter professed to have interviewed, and several gentlemen whose alleged views were quoted came in a body to the Times office and indignantly denied in toto the charges which had been made, or, indeed, having expressed any public opinion in regard to Col. Banbury. Among these were A. O. Bristol and J. Simmons.

Mr. Bristol is an old-time friend and admirer of Col. Banbury, and although a Democrat, would in no way wish to injure him in politics. When the charges were made he had never been interviewed, nor had he made the alleged statements to any one under any circumstances.

J. G. Rosier came emphatically in denial, and states that when asked his opinion on the question of Col. Banbury's record, he gave to the Herald in writing the following statement to his position in the matter: "I think that Col. Banbury is right in all matters whether public or personal, public or private. The charges of corruption are as foreign to him as to President Harrison, and in my opinion will fall flat." This communication was suppressed and a fake interview substituted.

T. A. Smith comes forward with the statement that he had never been interviewed by the Herald, and indignantly denied the expressions attributed to him in the Herald interview. He said he remembered remarking that he had known Col. Banbury for years as an honorable and upright man, and would express no opinion until the charges were investigated and facts disclosed.

The general sentiment of the people of this community is that the Herald's cowardly attempt to injure Col. Banbury has done more for his cause than many eulogies would have accomplished. The people of this community regard him as a man who is absolutely above reproach, and his friends and neighbors of all political parties are unanimous in their hearty disapproval of the audacious attempt which the Democratic organ has adopted to buoy up a forlorn hope until election day rolls around.

As was said above, the Democratic clubs of Pasadena played a match game yesterday afternoon at Atlantic Park, and at the end of the ninth inning the score stood 24 to 5 in favor of the followers of Benjamin. The Democrats were not in it, and their overwhelming defeat will serve to put them in a contemptible frame of mind prior to their still greater rout on Tuesday.

Following is the score in detail, which is furnished through the courtesy of Sidney W. Miller, the official scorer.

One of the most elaborate and delightful juvenile parties ever given in Pasadena was enjoyed last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pierce and given by their young daughter, Miss Mamie Pierce. Invitations were extended to about forty guests, and very few regrets were received. The beautiful grounds were prettily decorated with Chinese lanterns and the house was beautifully trimmed with flowers. The band of the fair case was a solid bank of white candelabras, which effective power was conspicuous throughout table and other decorations.

President Hayes's Reception. A delightful informal reception was held on Friday evening at the hospitable home of Prof. and Mrs. C. H. Hayes, on Grand avenue, more especially for the purpose of promoting sociability between students, teachers and members of the faculty. The occasion was more than ordinarily enjoyable.

The wide veranda through which the guests entered was brilliantly lighted by Chinese lanterns and draped in national flags. The new Thompson University, founded by the late Dr. J. H. Thompson, presented an elegant appearance.

The house was charmingly decorated with Christmas decorations, and the per-boughts artistically arranged. Prof. and Mrs. Hayes were assisted in the reception of their guests by Hon. A. G. ## SANTA ANA.

Senator Del Valle of Los Angeles addressed a fair-sized Democratic audience in Neill's Hall Friday evening. There was a conspicuous absence of many of the leading Democrats, on the rostrum and in the body of the hall, and an investigation developed the fact that a majority of them were down in the Brunswick Hotel office buying pools on the "hoss" race that took place here yesterday. To the faithful few of the "unaffiliated" and to the ladies, boys and scattering Republicans, the speaker labored for an hour and then dismissed them, the hall being vacated by a few minutes past 9 o'clock. Mr. Del Valle was not in good voice. Suffering as he was from a severe cold, he could not give himself understood, in the rear of the hall, and, as a result, many picked up their hats and walked out during the course of his remarks. His speech rather tended toward a reformation in politics than to the tariff question, and therefore would have been interesting if it had been properly delivered.

A NOTE OF WARNING.
The commission firm of White & Hankey has sounded a note of warning to the main growers in that the practice of sulphuring soft-shell walnuts is working an injury to the grower, as the sulphur penetrates the shell and kills the worm, but leaves the shell and meat in a disagreeable taste and spoils them, while those that have not been sulphured will keep for years and retain their rich flavor. It is hardly policy for fruit-growers to sacrifice a future good market for their products in order to secure a little brighter, clean-looking skin. It is not the shell that secures the market, but the meat within the shell which can be kept sweet and in good condition.

THE MACABEES.
At the lodge meeting of Santa Ana Test No. 8, Knights of the Macabees, Friday evening, J. M. Ermeries, organizer of the lodge, was presented with a handsome gold hunter-cas watch by the members of this new lodge. J. T. Wood, commander of the lodge, presented the beautiful timepiece to Mr. Ermeries, while Rev. George E. Pyle made a very appropriate presentation speech.

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY.

Disgraceful Street Fight Between a Man and a Woman.

Quite a disgraceful affair took place at the corner of Chappala and Costa streets yesterday afternoon. A stage driver named Steve A. Clares had a brutal fight with a woman named Ramona Olivera, in which he knocked her down and cut her mouth with his fist so badly that she had to have surgical assistance.

After the fight, she went to the Santa Barbara Jail and swore out a warrant for his arrest. The case was set for Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

A pension bill, having been granted given by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. on Friday evening, was a very pleasant affair, well attended and everybody seemed to enjoy it.

CLEVELAND'S

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

The Weather.
U. S. WEATHER OFFICE, LOS ANGELES, NOV. 5, 1892.—At 5 a.m. the barometer registered 30.09; at 5 p.m. 30.02. Thermometer for corresponding hours showed 58° and 65°. Maximum temperature, 62°; minimum temperature, 52°. Character of weather, clear.

INDICATIONS.
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—For Southern California: Fair, but cloudy and foggy along the coast; westerly winds; generally cooler.

If you are going to have a suit made to order at a second-class place, you don't really save any money by doing so, and you know you don't feel half as respectable as if your clothes fitted you and you were correct in style. It doesn't pay to look like a jay, or to feel like one. Now the tailor (No. 116 North Spring) is the man you want to go to. He is revolutionizing things in Los Angeles by teaching buyers that correct style is not expensive because it is correct in style. He charges very little, if any more for a suit than do the so-called cheap places, while in the matter of taste, fit, workmanship and looks there is no comparison. He is the best tailor in Los Angeles and carries the nicest stock; and yet his prices are reasonable. See him sure before ordering.

Silkwood gets there again, and likewise the Standard. The Throp University at Pasadena, after a careful examination of the merits of the different sewing machines, have purchased six standards for use in the training school of that institution. Intending purchasers should make note of this and call at Williams' and Nicoll's, No. 114 North Spring, and examine the standard before making a purchase. For particulars regarding territory and wholesale prices, address Williams Bros., No. 327 South Spring street, Los Angeles.

It has been said that it was impossible to make a shoe dressing for ladies' fine shoes that would improve the appearance of the shoe and yet not injure them. This is not true. We are living in an age of advancement. This result has been accomplished. Watson's Peerless Polish will positively improve the appearance of your shoes and will not crack nor injure them. It is beneficial to shoes to use before they begin to look rusty and will make them wear longer, as it is dust proof. Try it and you will use no other. For sale by all dealers.

Look! ladies look! At No. 150 North Spring street E. E. Barden is closing out his ladies' shoes at much less than factory cost preparatory to dealing in men's shoes exclusively. You can buy fine hand-turned button shoes for $1.50, in A, B and C widths; the finest French kid, hand-made shoes in AA, A, B, C and D widths, for $2.50, different styles of toes and heels. Every pair of ladies' shoes must go. "Cloth-top button shoes, $2.50, etc. Come and look them over.

Just arrived, a fine assortment of genuine Scotch and English Tweeds for suitings. Domestic pattern suits made to order from $20 up; imported from $30 up, for style and fashion. I have a first-class cutter. Fine tailoring is our aim. Best of workmanship. See us before placing your order elsewhere, as I can save you 25 per cent. Our business is strictly cash. No credit customers. Address: Williams Bros., No. 327 South Spring street, Los Angeles.

That the people of this city know a good thing when they see it is proven by the fact they are snapping up the chrysanthemums down at the C. G. Packard Floral Company's place at No. 340 South Broadway. A wagonload of the flowers is being sold at the demand. The reason is just this: Their plants are stunner. Everybody says they are the finest they ever saw. But the price! That's the most attractive feature. Everybody invited to the free flower show.

To the ladies. We have about fifty dozen of the best triple-edge table spoons left over from our big sale of last year, which we want to close out at half their price. Plain tipped table spoons, $3 per dozen. Engraved table spoons, $3.50 per dozen; also solid sterling silver table spoons in plain cases, $12 per half dozen. Goods can be seen at our place, Pacific Loan Company, No. 114 North Spring street, Rooms 2, 3 and 4.

A nice party is being made up which will leave Los Angeles for the East next Friday, the 11th, having a modern well-equipped tourist car through to Cincinnati, going via the Sunset Route and New Orleans. The party will be personally conducted by a Southern Pacific employe. Application for berths should be made at the Southern Pacific Company's general office, 144 South Spring street.

W. H. Woodham & Co. will open up a fine stock of medium-priced furniture at No. 324 South Spring street, and would be pleased to have a continuance of patronage of our former customers, and will promise all purchasers of furniture the lowest possible prices. See new big stock of new and fresh, and will make great effort to please our patrons.

Chimney sweeps are out of a job. Their day is over. See new big stock of new and fresh, and will make great effort to please our patrons.

If you need a warm overcoat, see our patterns, the best of workmanship, cut and made; none to equal. Just let our cutter measure you, and you will be sure to leave your coat, and have a new one made to order from $20 to $40, and on short notice. See Nicoll the Tailor, No. 114 North Spring street.

Inhalation therapy. This method of treatment was devised by Dr. Hoyer, and is very successfully used by him in the cure of the throat, deafness and diseases of the throat and lungs. Patients are now being received for treatment. Over the Turkish baths, 210 South Main street.

We wish to call attention to the new line of remnant prowlings on patches, which we received. They excel anything we have had. Now is the time to prepare for Christmas and a new line of remnant prowlings on patches, which we received. See Nicoll the Tailor, No. 114 North Spring street.

Ladies interested in the popular complexion treatment of the face may receive a free treatment test at our toilet parlors. Manicuring and hairdressing. Misses Weaver & Harris, Nov. 3 and 10, Hotel Ramona, corner Third and Spring.

The new wharf at Santa Monica is now out 2200 feet. Rock cod, smelt and other fish are plentiful, and good catches are made. The Southern Pacific 9:30 a.m. and 1:17 p.m. Sunday trains run through to the wharf. Round trip 50 cents.

To be sacrificed on Monday and Tuesday, fifty men's fine all-wool suits, stylish and well-made, at $9.50 each. This is a cut from $15 for Monday and Tuesday only. Pioneer & Gray Company, No. 223 South Spring street.

Another Special Walnut Train—Heavy Travel to California Beginning—General, Local and Personal Railroad Notes.

The Terminal Railroad Company has completed the extension of the Altadena line about two miles beyond its former terminus to a point in Rubio Canon, where it will connect with the cable incline railway, which will form the first section of the road to the summit of Mt. Wilson. The work of constructing the cable incline to the point on the mountain where the hotel will be located is well under way, and the Terminal Company's track is to be utilized at first in carrying supplies and building material for it.

SCRAP HEAP.
T. P. Gabel, general superintendent of the Atlantic and Pacific, visited Los Angeles yesterday.

A. P. Maginnis, claim agent of the Southern California lines of the Santa Fe, has gone east to pay a visit to his mother.

The Santa Fe overland came in over three hours late yesterday, the result of an extra heavy load of passengers bound hitherward.

The second special train load of walnuts sent eastward by the Santa Fe was dispatched Thursday. The train consisted of fifteen cars.

Manager Burnett of the Terminal road is not in Washington, as has been published, but is in the city, and has been for some days, except when absent on official business over the road.

The Santa Fe is announcing in Chicago papers that tickets from that city to California, good for nine months, will be sold to passengers by the new California limited train for $100. This train, which will soon begin running, and the low rates will be much to stimulate travel hitherward.

Collis P. Huntington, president of the Southern Pacific, with the other officials accompanying him, went eastward yesterday, visiting Riverside, San Bernardino, Redlands and other places en route. President Huntington proceeded toward New York and the others returned on their way back to San Francisco.

At the June meeting of stockholders of the Southern California Railway Company a change in the by-laws was made by which the annual meeting of stockholders should be held in the fall instead of the spring. The new date for this formality occurred Thursday, when a meeting was held at the general offices, this city. The only business transacted was the election of T. D. Stinson of Los Angeles to succeed H. L. Drew of San Bernardino as a director of the company.

BUSY!

Were we busy yesterday? Well, we should think! Busy in all departments, and though we have added to our force of salesmen it was just all the boys could do to handle the trade. In order not to disappoint patrons we have engaged more help in our tailor shop.

Our well assorted stock, both for men and boys' wear, attracts the attention of all judicious people, and the prices are so popular that to see means to buy.

Crowds of people stood around our middle window last night to see the pretty Shetland pony and the beautiful Kentucky horse that we propose giving to our patrons. There is not a boy in town that is not talking about the pony, and the horse would be an acceptable New Year's present to the richest man.

CATARRH.
Catarrh is often regarded by the patient as a cold in the head, and he often expresses his astonishment at his remarkable tendency to contract a fresh cold. Indeed, he declares he is scarcely free from one cold before he takes another, and he is always exceedingly careful. It is also a matter of surprise to him that the cold always seems to come up to the head and throat.

At times many of the symptoms of catarrh may seem to abate, and the patient is led to hope that the disease is about to wear off; but another class of symptoms soon appear, and he learns to his horror that instead of recovery from the disease it is changed in its character and extended to the throat. A series of weakness is sometimes felt in reading, speaking or singing, hoarseness at times occurs, a sensation of dryness is sometimes felt in the throat, or it appears that some foreign substance, as for instance, a hair, obstructed the throat. There becomes a sense of languor and fatigue, the breath lessens upon the slightest exertion, a short, hacking cough, a peculiar sound in clearing the throat, a feeling as though there were not room enough in the chest to breathe; these and other symptoms occur after the disease has made considerable progress. Then it is a time when consumption is about to begin its dreadful work. Up to this point the progress of the disease may have been slow, and the patient may in expressing his confident hope that it will "wear off," declare that he has had catarrh for years and has not seemed to become much worse, and that he has been "by-and-by" recovered. But this delusion is the grand error which has peopled our centuries with consumptive forms, as all forms of catarrh end finally in consumption.

Every case of catarrh can be cured if properly treated.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

Consultations free and prices within the reach of all. The very best of references from those already cured.

Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for an examination, but if impossible to visit the office personally may write for a list of questions and circular, both of which will be sent free of charge. Address,

This is not very startling news to communicate; not nearly as important as to tell you about our specials as enumerated below. It will be well to read the list; it will inform you on right prices; it will tell you what we have on sale and post you generally. We would like to remind you that Her Majesty's Corset is taking like wild fire; prices from $2.75 to $5.00; no one cheaper. Fine grade goods are selling rapidly with us. No finer goods kept in the State. Yvanti Underwear, best underwear manufactured; we keep the best in every line. Post's Kid Gloves, many imitate them; none others have the genuine; we are the agents. Finest line of trimmings and furs. The dressmakers say our assortment the best; dressmakers know, they are experts in this line; they warmly recommend this house; we like the dressmakers' sanction. We are aiming for increased trade. We want to add more patrons to our constant list of customers.

millions of acres of them: but up around the head waters of Deep Creek we saw such timber as I never saw before and never expect to see again. A forest of evergreen giants as thick as they could stand, towering over 300 feet high, straight as the rays of light that glared back from their branches.

"Without a limb, knot or woodpecker hole" more than half-way up. Even at mid-day the deep twilight that pervaded the forest gave out soundings an air of mellow mystery, all wrapped in the dreadful stillness of the grave. No birds were there, no crickets, no active, glad life of any kind to break the eternal silence day, the night, the year.

primitive giants. The silence was oppressive. It seemed to be a thing, an existence, which we felt restrained from touching. Almost unconsciously we stepped lightly, fearing that our tread might break the lock that imprisoned the heavy secrets of the forest. Involuntarily we peered into the gloom as if in dread of seeing some grim specter wandering there bewildered in the vastness called to by some lost spirit held back to earth by the umbrageous cloak of o'erhead. There was something so dismal and death-like about the stillness and solitude of this place that I almost imagined that I myself was the ghost of some being, that had once lived and wandered there, come back to "squeak and gibber" over the misfortunes and

Motion of any kind, anything breaking the monotonous stillness of the place was startling. Even the noise of a falling twig was as the thunder of an avalanche. A low-spoken word moaned out through the forest like the coming storm, and one's very thoughts seemed to rattle in the skull like marbles. The Doctor appeared to be pro-stood once with his hands on his hips, his hat tipped back, his face full of sentiment, mentally soquiloquizing, no doubt, as I was, and entirely forgetful of the fact that there was such a thing as a dog in the country, when Mike and Towser came out suddenly from behind a tree right in front of him. With two or three quick jumps backward, hand-ner and hair on end, he involuntarily ejaculated that one simple but expressive monosyllable, "Ugh!" The Doctor, you must know, like many another poor mountain wanderer, is mortally afraid of cougars and doubtless on first impression imagined, he was attacked by a whole herd of these varmints; and neither the occasion nor the color of either do

We were in this dismal forest on whole day, and really I felt relieve when we got where we could hear the birds sing and see the sunshine.

Two Views of Japan,
OPTIMISTIC.

Oh, fair Japan: oh, rare Japan:
Thou land of ancient trees,
Where lotus blossoms fringe thy paths

Where fumes o' the their fragrant heads
To kiss thy plashing streams.
And dark-skinn'd Musmes, almond-eye
Wake long-forgotten dreams.

Thy hills, crown-capp'd with sacred grove
Inclose thy gilded shrines;
In grottoes where the iris blooms
Droop sweet wisteria vines.
Mysterious languor seems to hang
O'er mountain, plain and rill;
An unreality of life

Thine ancient shrines to Buddha blest,
With Shinto's gilded spires,
Proclaim a soul-sustaining res.,
And ecstasy inspires.
Oh, sweet it is to dwell with thee:
"Land of the Rising Sun"—
Where beauty, age and mystery
Combine themselves in one.

PESSIMISTIC.
Oh, happy Japan, Oh, happy Japan!

Where noisome odors fill the air
And float on every breeze.
Where men run naked on the streets,
Wear spectacles for clothes,
And old and young and rich and poor
Eschew the use of hose.

Oh, land devoid of knives and forks,
Of tables, chairs and beds!
Where women black their teeth and shave
Their little babies' heads—

(A quiet New York man)
For all this nude simplicity
Career'ing round Japan.

I've had enough of cloisonne,
Of ivory carvings, too;
Of ancient, rare Satsuma jugs
(Which probably are new);
I hate the sight of Buddha fat,
He's too infernal calm!
And temples, shrines, red lacquer ware

Boy, bring my clothes up from the wash
As quickly as you can.
Sir Edwin Arnold writes a lot
Of osh about Japan.
I'm shivering cold, I'm wringing wet,
I've been an idle dreamer;
To Yokohama let me get,
And there—thank God—a steamer!

Any of the earlier stages of Consumption can be cured. It's a matter of evidence strong enough and complete enough to bring you to the Golden Rule.

If it's taken in time and given a fair trial, they'll refund the money in any case where their medicine fails to benefit or cure.

But it's a medicine that doesn't fail; it goes to the root of the trouble. Consumption developed through the blood, and must be cured in the same way. It's a scrofulous affection of the lungs — a blood-taint. The surest remedy for Scrofula in all forms, the most potent blood-cleansing, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder known.

Consumption; it cures all Bronchial, Tubercular and Lung affections, Asthma, Weak Lungs, Severe, Lingering Coughs, and kindred ailments—through the blood.

we are dividing the profits with you on our fifty-cent line of all-wool dress goods; nearly two hundred different styles to select from—they are copied from high-class french novelties; they will wear as well as most dollar goods; the styles are fully equal to still higher-priced goods—it is our way to increase trade in the dress goods department; we give you better values than you will find elsewhere for the same money.

we are doubling up trade in the cloak department; already equal to the combined sales of all the cloak houses in the city—special attention is directed to the five-dollar, eight-dollar and ten-dollar line; unusual bargains at these prices—cloaks at $12.00, $15.00, $18.50 and $20.00 taken in a range of high-class novelties of extra values and first-class styles—in the higher-priced goods we show a grand line of novelties, one or two of a kind and with nearly one thousand garments to select from.

"our new linen room!"

—What is a linen room?—there is only one other linen room in america; no wonder people do not know what a linen room is, what it looks like, or why it should be called a linen room—in this room you will find the choicest goods from the old country; the goods are shown in an attractive way; it is done to cause favorable comment and to bring people into the best linen department in this city—here is another way we have to draw public opinion in our favor, to create trade in the foremost department of its kind in this city—we have just entered upon a new era in our big linen department; it will in a short time stand side by side with the big cloak department, the big dress goods department, the big millinery department, the big corset department, the big glove department—the trade of this house is growing tremendously—all ladies are interested in linens—you will be more interested in linens by a personal inspection of our new linen room; the goods are shown in attractive manner, and the stock is being replenished each week—we specially invite an examination of our new line of stamped linens.

"it is a supposable case"

—you have not forgotten the doll contest: $20, $25 and a $80 doll are offered as premiums, and with the first prize a further prize of $50 is offered; call or send for a circular; any little girl under 13 years of age can compete.

—If you can buy our dollar doll for less than $1.50 elsewhere, we don't know who has them for sale; a little later on we will not have one to show you; a dollar for a doll that sold last season for two dollars; our way to draw trade, and it draws.

"crystalline silks in every shade"

—the popular silk at present; have you seen them? do you know what they are? whether you wish to purchase or not they will be shown you freely; good men behind the dress goods counter.

"the best doll"

—bargain in ten years; a kid body, bisque head and arms, natural eyes and hair, shoes and stockings, full size and full proportioned, full 18 inches long; monday only the price will be 50c; they are worth a dollar, and are sold for a dollar all over this city; we have a limited quantity only, and the price will be for one day only.

"sale monday at 9 o'clock"

—and not before; no one party will be allowed to purchase more than three dolls; at our last doll sale dealers endeavored to take all we had; we are willing to sell dealers as well as all others, but this limit is placed to protect the regular customers of the house; now is the time to "purchase for christmas."

"our infants' underwear"

—department is the largest in the city; second floor; big cases; everything needed; here is a complete infants' outfitting department; we also sell "royal worcester corsets."

"ladies' all-wool knitted skirts"

—in a large variety of colors and in a limited quantity only, for $1 each; after this lot the price will be 75c; it is a good time to buy; the combinations are most excellent; the trade of the house is showing very large gains, almost double over a year ago; our way to gain trade is to seek first the good will of all the employees; they transmit it to the customers by the best treatment.

—french broadcloths and storm sergees; they are the best ideas for the new fall dresses; broadcloths are unusually good, white black and all colors; a good springing of new fall designs in cloaks; flannels for skirts, nice, new ideas, 35c a yard; they are good sellers and new to the eye in design and colorings.

"our handkerchief department"

—is full to the brim; it sparkles all over with bright, new bargains from each up to almost any price wanted in elegant, hand-made goods.

"the new chiffon handkerchiefs"

—are very fine; here is where handkerchiefs are displayed in large quantities.

"an extra quality leather"

—hand bags for $1; chatelaine bags 25c, 50c, 75c, $1, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75 and $2; an extra large assortment to select from—values $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, $2.75, $3.00; extra nickel-plated locks, good leather and strong handles—shawl and bag straps 25c, 35c and 50c—ladies' belts 10c, 25c, 50c, 75c and $1.00; largest and cheapest leather goods department in town; everybody says so, and it is so; that's what.

"pocketbooks and purses"

—here 25c; elsewhere 50c; imported purses, extra good clasps and fine leather, lined with real kid, for a quarter; don't neglect this chance to replenish our purse in buying a purse for yourself; they hold plenty of coppers for missionary purposes, and an occasional dollar besides; 25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00.

"here are the lines that are the strongest"

—they should be, as here is where large buying is done.

"it has hardly been"

—necessary to call attention to our

"big millinery department"

—we have everything new and desirable to show you, all the latest and best styles and the prices are marked very low; we charge nothing extra for fine trimming; this is our way to advertise; give good work and sell at moderate prices—our millinery department is a success and it should be.

—every shade now in embroidery and knitting silk; better commence making christmas presents now, for a little later to find; there is more prosperity now and more trade; everybody begins to feel better; the new water works for los angeles puts the people in better hope, and it is bound to have a good influence.

"The past week has demonstrated beyond a doubt the opportunity for any man, young or old —to gain his point if he goes at it in the right way—the idea of the city of los angeles voting $526,000 in bonds for a system of water works was ridiculed two years ago as an utter improbable proposition; today it is an accomplished fact, and it is one of the most popular things, and will prove the greatest blessing ever voted upon by the people in the city; over and over again you could hear, "what is the use of fighting capital?" it was not fighting capital; it was working earnestly for right, and any young man starting out in life if he will have but the one idea to look forward to will gain the goal of his ambition; right will always triumph over might; money cannot buy honor; principles are never sold; a merchant's business is gauged by the power of the merchant to place his wares and his ideas in a proper light before the public; the public appreciates right methods; although criticisms may be pointed at you if you are right, push them aside as so much chaff and work the harder to bring about the best results; no money on earth can buy public opinion; they may stifle it, but public opinion bobs up serene when the purchasing power is exhausted; a merchant in conducting a business should lay out a policy and then rigidly live up to it; our policy is to treat all the employees in the most gentlemanly and honorable manner; watch for little ways to benefit them, give them encouragement to do good, work and place them in a comfortable position where their minds will work in the easiest and best manner, and they will show it to all customers they come in contact with; criticism will not accomplish good; a little sweet oil softens up the soft spots, and when the fur is rubbed the right way the greatest good comes out of it; when a man is forced into a fight to remedy a worry he should show a determination of character that will overpower ten thousand weak and timid beings; what if it does hurt for a short time, it is only more to a man's credit for striking for what he knows is right; we have but one way to do business; we endeavor to do business in the right way; we close every night in the week, and we shall continue to do so; it is right; it makes better help; it creates enthusiasm, and this is what is needed—a cork will never sink; it keeps bobbing up; it comes to the surface, and right methods will always do the same; one price, no deceit, no misrepresentation, no urging of sales, goods shown with the greatest freedom, samples given freely and cheerfully, ten per cent discount allowed all ministers, no exceptions are made; all these little things bring into better notion our way to do business; we endeavor to keep salespeople who will endeavor to show every attention to all whether they are rich or poor, high or low; they are all treated as desirable customers, and no slight is allowed and none is given; in this house you never hear remarks against other houses; it would not be tolerated; we are not supposed to know what our neighbors are doing; we go upon the principle that our own business needs all the attention we can give it, and no inquiries are ever made about the prices or the wares of other merchants; we do not employ help while engaged in other houses, and nothing is done to antagonize them against this business; we realize the importance of treating all clerks in other houses with the greatest courtesy, and we endeavor to merit their good will; this is the foundation of this business; it is the largest by far in this city today, and the growth at the present is something wonderful.

"down comforts"

—and cushions, silk and silk-lace; also a set in fancy french designs—a fine line of silk-lace quilts, ruffled edges; also a nice line of crib blankets and crib quilts—a new line of silk melon cushions or head-rests.

"we have been"

—revolutionizing the way of doing business in this house; there is a kind of a "git up and git" style about the way we hustle around; it is the little penny that we catch and they soon count into the dollars; a lady came into the house the other day and asked one of the clerks what made that gentleman behind the linen counter look so happy; oh! the clerk said, he has a new linen room, and he feels as proud over it as a boy with a pair of new red top boots; no wonder; there is only one other linen room in this big united states, and the

"display in our linen room"

—is very fine; you should see it.

"during the past"

—few years the cloak business has sprung into one of the first importance; every lady wears a cloak now; a few years ago it was waterproof garments and shawls; today they have given way to the march of progress in the cloak line—here is the great mecca for cloaks in all southern california; one price, good treatment, safe trading; this, with the largest stock of new ideas, makes the cloak department of this house one of the first importance.

"cloaks for $2.50,"

$3.00, $3.50, $4.00 and $5.00!

—here is a line of prices that creates a demand for a rapid turning over of stocks; they are all new styles! high sleeves, long garments, made over the same patterns as the high-priced cloaks; good material for the price—it seems surprising how well and low perfect the cloaks are—better ones for $3, $10, $12, $15, $18.50, $18, on up to $40; stylish tailor-made garments, some trimmed with fur and some perfectly plain—english kerseys with lap seams, very desirable and fine looking garment—our cloak department is worthy your attention.

"the new im-

—provement made in this store this year defines more closely the onward march of progress—first came the big millinery room, quadrupled in size with large showcases added to display the stock; then came the big underwear case, devoted to the display of fine underwear and infants' outfits; then came the big improvement in our mammoth cloak room, more than double its former size, and in addition a large showcase 40 feet long and 8 feet deep, the largest in california—here in los angeles is the largest cloak room in all california—the past week our new, large, beautiful linen room, the only one of the kind west of chicago; one hundred and fifty feet of showcase added this year; it is to make the store more beautiful and more inviting; bring your visiting friends here and let them see the way we do business in the far west—a modern store with all the modern improvements, making the goods look more beautiful and bringing them more clearly to your view—we are making rapid progress all along the line, adding a little here and a little there and giving words of encouragement to all the clerks; this makes it pleasant for them and for you—did you ever see a more cheerful, happy lot; it is catching, it takes; it is no longer a question of brute force in managing help, it is kindness; it is good cheer and words of encouragement—we believe all the employees are well satisfied to remain with us, and we are satisfied to have them.

"p and p kid gloves;"

—a little better than any other glove, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00; all prices and most excellent fitting gloves.

—children's jackets in great abundance; children's long cloaks in greater abundance; and the prices are made to catch the masses; here is headquarters for all kinds of cloaks, and here is where more business is done in cloaks than all the other houses combined; one price.

"ladies' strictly all-wool"

—natural colored hose 25c a pair; actual value 50c; this is cheaper than going barefooted; ladies' quality fine black hose 10c; three pair for 50c, or six pair for a dollar; they, too, are cheap.

"ladies' all-wool"

"knitted skirts"

—in a large variety of colors and in a limited quantity only for

"one dollar each!"

—after this lot the price will be 75c; it is a good time to buy, the combinations are the most excellent—the trade of this house is showing very large gains, almost double over a year ago—our way to gain trade is to seek first the good will of all the employees; they transmit it to the customers by the best treatment.

"another sale that will draw"

—a crowd to our big second floor—ladies' good quality skirt in dark colors, neatly trimmed, full length and width.

"for 75c each; they are worth one fifty!"

"nice all-wool dress patterns"

—for $3.50; better ones for $5.00 you cannot find; the range of styles is very large, all wool, and the price $3.50; all new this season; a remarkable price; we have sold no better ones for $7.00 and $8.00; this is our way to build up the dress goods trade; have you noticed how largely we have increased help all through the house; this shows which way the wind is blowing; it is blowing right smartly our way just now.

—cool weather creates brisk buying in the underwear department; all-wool, jersey-knit vests for a dollar; elsewhere $1.50; no fiction about our quotations; they are facts; the least deviation in the truth reacts and does more harm than good; all-wool vests $1; sold elsewhere for $1.50.

"full and complete line"

—of shawls of every kind and style, from a common breakfast shawl to an extra fine beaver; we show them in our big cloak room.

"children's knitted hoods, sacques, bootees and mittens in large assortment.

"another sale that will draw"

—a crowd to our big second floor; ladies' good quality skirts in dark colors, neatly trimmed, full length and width, for 75c each; they are worth $1.50.

"blankets $1.00, $1.25, $1.75,"

—$2.00, $2.50, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $4.50, $5.00, $5.50, $6.00, $6.50; that is the way we make up our assortment; if you don't need blankets now when will you? don't put off buying until you get the grip; you will regret it if you do.

"a lot of new embroideries"

—and laces—you will find in this department the most complete line of medium and cheap dress trimmings—moderate prices is what the people demand now, and we have our eyes and ears wide open, as well as good sense in putting the best seller on sale—our dress trimming stock is right.

"do you know"

—we carry very much the largest stock of baskets in the city; here you see our lined and unlined baby baskets; have you noticed how cheap they are marked? do you know you can buy a good lunch or shopping basket for a quarter of a dollar, or as old californians say two bits; our stock of work baskets and all other kinds of baskets is about as good as you want them.

—picking up the crumbs, a little here and a little there, reducing the price when slow sellers are in the way—here is where great gains are being made; it is our way to gain trade and to keep it; odds and ends in remnants all through the house, and prices marked to get them out of the way; bargain hunters will find a choice of good things by looking up our remnant bargains.

Clean Soap for Shaving.—The St. Petersburg Penitentiary and How It is Managed.—A Ride Which Mr. Remington and I Did Not Take.

Special Correspondence of The Times.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 10, 1892.—I came to Russia, fully armed for contact with the police. I have letters from Mr. Byrnes, the superintendent of the police of New York city, recommending me to the protection and confidence of the policemen of Russia. I have confidential notes of introduction from the head of our secret service of the Treasury Department to the chief of the third section of the Czar, and before I left the United States I got letters from the Pinkertons to the chiefs of police of the great Russian cities. These letters have been of value in giving me an insight into the police systems of this nation, which is said to have the best regulated and the most perfect police system of the world. By the Czar is said to know just where every one of his 100,000,000 subjects sleeps every night, and St. Petersburg is practically governed by the police. The head of the third section of the detective service of this capital, together with the chief of police, control all matters relating to the sanitary and political conditions of the city. Sitting in their big offices, not far from the banks of the Neva, they have their fingers on the wires which reach to every house and every room in St. Petersburg. Filed away in the pigeon holes of their offices is the record of every suspected person in the empire and their system is such that they can turn in an instant the electric light of police investigation on the record of almost any man in the world. They have their agents in every capital of the world, and nothing is done anywhere which the least affects Russia which is not known to these agents and put upon record.

And still one might travel all over Russia and hardly know that the police exists. Outside of complying with the passport regulations, which are attended to by the managers of the hotels, you do not meet the police more here than in any other European city, and I have not found them as offensive in their bearing as the police of New York and London. I had no trouble with them on the frontier. I have carried my camera with me and have taken photographs of them on foot and on horseback. I have through them resisted the extortions of the droshchky or cab drivers, and have gotten information from them just as I would from a policeman on a street corner in America. I have found them just as polite in south Russia and in the villages along the Volga as I have found them in the large cities, and I am convinced that the traveler who minds his own business and goes about it without fear may travel just as easily here as in any part of Europe. In fact, the only trouble I have had with the police during my three months here was in connection with Frederick Remington, the famous artist, who, in company with Poultny Biglow, made a very short visit to Russia and left in haste. I came with them to the frontier, and Mr. Biglow on the same ship from New York to Hamburg. I lived in the same hotel with them at St. Petersburg and said good-by to them when they left. I took a photograph of them in the steamer Normann, on which we crossed, and I think their fear of Russian imprisonment had more foundation in their minds than any basis in fact.

Mr. Remington and myself, while out riding one day behind a fast droshchky horse, ran across with military precision, and this official was angry at our presumption. It was on the fashionable drive which goes from St. Petersburg to the islands of the Neva. The military man had a better horse than we had and he snatched the reins from us. Shortly after this we came to a bridge in the center of which was a policeman. The official got there first and he said a word to the policeman as he passed, and when we came up the policeman told us we must get back to the city. We protested, but we could not get back. Russian and our droshchky driver was forced to turn around and we drove back home. Whether the official was one of the police or whether he was a 5-cent general I do not know. At any rate he was big enough and small enough to take this petty revenge and we had to submit.

The military and the police work together in Russia, and the chief of police can call in the military to help him. The chief of the third section here is practically the governor of the city. He can try suspected persons when it is necessary in secret, and about 20,000 men were, it is said, banished from the capital every year during the reign of Gen. Gresser. Gresser was the most famous chief of police the Czar has had for years. He was a general of the army when he discovered a plot to assassinate the Czar, and his services in this were so great that the Czar made him the chief of the third section. He gave him a present of $250,000, a residence here in St. Petersburg and a pension of $1500 a year. Gen. Gresser died only a few months ago, and it is claimed by some that he was assassinated. The truth of it seems to be that he died from taking injections of Brown-Sequard extract to bolster up his waning health. The present chief of police is a fierce-looking man of about 40, who is a more pompous man than Gresser was and who does matters in a business way. I chatted with him in German for some time the other day, and found him a very intelligent, though somewhat secretive official.

A man's life is as safe in St. Petersburg as it is in New York, and there is less vice and crime here than there is in the average American city. There is a policeman on every block both day and night, and there is a policeman in the center of every street crossing. The laws of the road are such that though a man may drive at the rate of twelve miles an hour down the Nevsky prospect and though the people always drive at a break-neck pace you never see collisions. There are few burglaries and few murders here, and there are less arrests than in London. The police force of St. Petersburg consists of 2000 men. The city is divided into forty-two police districts, and each district has a police station, with which is connected a sort of police court. In each one of these stations records are kept of all the citizens of the district, and these records are classified so that the police can tell in a moment the history and standing of any man in the district. These records are made on papers of different colors, and those who are suspected of political offenses have papers of a separate color from those suspected of crime, and dangerous characters have their police biographies written on a paper of still different color. In every one of the police stations, and in the police stations all over the empire, are kept lists of men who are to be arrested wherever they are found, and of men who are considered dangerous to the government. Similar lists are sent to the agents of Russia in the different capitals of the world, and by reports from these police agents the government knows as far as possible just where its enemies are.

The 2000 policemen of St. Petersburg wear uniforms. There are tens of thousands of other men employed by the police who dress in citizens' clothes, and every house in St. Petersburg has its police agent and spy. Many of the people here live in flats, and the man who takes care of the flat is known as the dvornik, and he is responsible to the police for the people within it. He reports upon their doings; he sees that their passports are correct, and he keeps the police informed as to what stations and in his house, and it is almost impossible to have a secret meeting in Russia without it being reported by one of these men. The dvorniks have a sort of trades union among themselves, and they are governed by a chief, and this chief is a member of the police, and is, to a certain extent, responsible for the actions of the dvorniks. It is necessary for every householder to have one of these men, and often there are several of them in a single flat. They have control of the sanitary arrangements of the houses, as well as the political and criminal arrangements. They are expected by the police to see that the streets in front of their houses are swept and watered twice a day, and St. Petersburg has as well-kept streets as any city in the world. The dvorniks are responsible for any dirt or filth inside the house, and the man who does not keep his house clean in St. Petersburg can be arrested. If the police see a business man whose shop is not properly cared for they order him to clean it. If he does not do so he may receive an order to close up his establishment for a certain number of days, and he has to do it. It is the same with theaters. One here in St. Petersburg had not as many exits as the police considered necessary. The manager was playing a big engagement when he received an order from the police to remedy this defect and make the house safe. He paid no attention to it and went on with his show. The result was that a few days later his theater was closed by the order of the police and what he might have repaired the loss of a few nights of acting cost him many thousands of dollars. It is the same with the smallest matters. There is a law here that the barber shops must bring a clean piece of soap and a clean brush to every man they shave, and the barber who would do otherwise would be arrested. The result is that the order at St. Petersburg is very good, indeed, and though there is much drunkenness among the people there are few brawls and practically no riots.

The passport bureaus are all under the police. Every man and every woman in Russia must have a passport, and if they move from one place to another or from one house to another this passport must be used by the police. If a servant goes out of the country and wishes his wife to follow him he must arrange so that she can get a passport from the police, and this will be granted her only on the application of her husband, and will not be given without his permission. Every large hotel of Russia has its passport bureau, and you hand in your passport the moment you arrive, and the hotel-keeper has it used for you and gives it back to you within an hour or so. In leaving the hotel you must need to have it again, and without you are going out of the country, but the landlord always asks you where you are going, and the moment you leave word is sent to the police as to the date of your departure and the place of your destination. Landlords are recompensed for this service, and the police are fined if they do not send in the passports promptly. I have heard of the necessity of one always having a passport with him, and since I have been in Russia I have carried mine constantly in my left breast pocket. I have never had it called for, however, but it is, I am told, necessary if one would have checks cashed at the banks or letters at the postoffice. The policeman in Russia is not very well paid, and salaries are very low throughout the Russian empire. It is the same with the soldiers. The Czar has something like a million men in his army, but these do not receive as much as a postage stamp a day for their work, and the ordinary policeman only gets $12 a month. The chief of the police districts here receives only $1250 a year, and in the interior policemen often receive no more than $250 a month and pay their own expenses.

Every man in Russia is expected to help the police. All householders must keep records of the servants they employ. There are blank books made for this purpose, and in one column you must put down the date of engagement of a servant, his religion and where he comes from. You must give his age and must have a record of his height, size, color, and, in fact, a regular passport description of him. You must send a notice to the police that you have employed him, and they look from time to time over your servant book and put their stamp upon it. It is the same with hired girls as with hired men, and the same with clerks as with house servants. When the servant leaves you must again notify the police and state where he has gone. You have to pay fees and stamps for his service and the police here enforce the collection of stamp taxes. Not long ago there was an order passed that every receipt and business paper should have a stamp, and the police were about to collect this tax from a gas company in South Russia.

This company had thousands of contracts which were merely matters of record, and the police called and tried to collect stamp duties upon each of these. The owner, who was a shrewd Englishman, saw that the thing was going to cost him about $30,000, and he burned up his contracts and thus evaded the tax. He had a book account which enabled him to supply the loss, and he told me gleefully how he got ahead of the government.

I chatted about the police with another Englishman who lives in one of the big towns of the Black plain, and who was very angry at the police surveillance which was kept over him. Said he: "You can't do anything here that is not known to the police, and there are spies everywhere. Your servants watch you, and even a beggar may be a spy. If a man does anything that is out of the way he is put under police supervision, and he has to report every month or every week to the police. I had a clerk with me not long ago who was supposed to be a free thinker. He had to report to the police every month. One night we missed him and did not hear from him for about two months. He had been taken off in prison there a month. When his accusers were brought to the city and this man was brought out with thirty others, but his accusers could not pick him out of the lot, and the result was that the authorities released him. As soon as he was released he was told that he could have a free ticket home if he would wait a week for the police to be satisfied to pay his fare and go at once, and he did so. It is not uncommon for men to be sent from here to Siberia. Many of them do not go in prison gangs. They merely receive orders from St. Petersburg to report to the police at certain stations in Siberia and to remain there until they receive permission to leave. Once there they can engage in any business they please, provided they make their reports properly, and sometimes they stay for years. When they come back they say but little about their experiences in Siberia, and they are very careful of their utterances in the future. The majority of the persons sent to Siberia are for criminal and not political offenses. When a bank fails here the directors get 'wolf passports,' tickets for Siberia, and if a man commits murder he is sent to Siberia for life. There is not a great deal of hogging done in the prisons, but banishment takes its place. Speaking of the spy system of Russia, while I was at Nijni Novgorod the Governor detailed his private secretary to go with me, and this man was very particular to know just what I was doing and for what purpose. He pretended that he wanted it for newspaper publication, but I afterward learned that he was a spy, and I doubt not the story I told him was sent right on to St. Petersburg. During my stay there I took a dinner at a gentleman's house at which this private secretary was present, and at this one of the ladies at the table remarked in English that there were spies everywhere and there was one at this very table, but owing to his not understanding English he would not be able to report our conversation. I have been surprised, in fact, to find out how freely people talk in Russia about the government. They discuss the Czar and the officials openly, and it seems to me that they are quite as free in this respect as we are in the United States. I find less red tape about the offices here in St. Petersburg than I have found in any of the other capitals of Europe, and the Russian and Socialists are undoubtedly watched carefully, the people do not seem to be afraid of the police as much as is supposed, and they have their good points as well as their bad ones.

I have paid some attention to the prisons of European Russia. I find some of them very much overcrowded, and the prisons of the empire need a general reformation. About those of Siberia I know nothing. They are probably as bad as the Russian prisons. One of the finest penitentiaries in the world is here at St. Petersburg. It is a splendid structure on the other side of the Neva River which cost $500,000 to build and which will accommodate about 1000 prisoners. It is lit by electric lights and it is thoroughly sanitary in its arrangements. Each cell in it has cost about $500 and the cells are fitted up with Bibles and educational works and with the materials for industrial work. The prisoners are well fed for Russia. They get buckwheat, mush and soup and rye bread three times a day, and they eat this out of wooden bowls with wooden spoons. The prison clothes are no worse than those of the treatment of the hair of the prisoners is different. We shave the whole head, but the Russian convict has only one-half of his head shaved and the remainder is left to grow long. They are fully as clean as our prisoners, and the Russian prisoner is given a bath as good as a Turkish bath every week. There are about 1000 prisoners in this empire, and the prison population of Russia is not, all told, much larger than our population. It amounted to, in 1888, 116,000 and in 1890 we had 45,000 prisoners in our penitentiaries, to say nothing of the number in our jails and reformatories. During that year 18,000 were exiled to Siberia, and Siberia has, all told, it is said, a hard-labor convict population of not more than 10,000. The profits of contract labor in the prisons of Russia amount to only $150,000 a year, or just one-twentieth of the $7,000,000 a year which it costs the country for its prisoners.

Edible Fats.

The fats in common use as food are the fat of milk, as butter or cream; the fat of fruit, of which olive oil is an example; that of fish, as cod liver oil; wheat, oatmeal and Indian corn; and the fats of meats, as tallow, suet, lard and dripping.

Olive oil is one of the most easily digested and palatable of fats. A genuine olive oil of good quality, is, in this country, unfortunately expensive, much of that sold under the name being adulterated with cotton-seed oil, poppy oil and essence of lard. The decline in the sardine trade has led to the use of cotton-seed oil by the fat that cotton-seed oil has so largely replaced olive oil in the packing of these fish. People who once regarded them as a great delicacy no longer find them palatable. Cotton-seed oil has an especially bad flavor, but it is unpleasant and indigestible when used raw, as in sardines and salads. The after-taste which it leaves reminds one too forcibly of castor oil.

Olive oil of the best quality is almost absolutely without odor. It is prepared in several grades, the best and pressing from the fruit is the best, the second is fair, the third inferior, and there is sometimes a fourth known as "refuse" oil.

For deep-fat frying nothing is so good as olive oil, but its costliness would exclude it in this country from common use.

Poultry Notes.

The sleepy disease always means lice, especially on the head and neck. Lice means work. Repeat these precautions and remedies frequently.

Lice about both in winter and summer, but more especially in summer.

No mites need be present where plenty of coal oil and carbolic acid are used.

A handful of sunflower seed twice a week is good to feed during moulting.

Scalded at night and then feed the next day; they will be free of lice.

Dust insect powder in the feathers, and be sure it is fresh and good for little chicks.

Crude petroleum is always excellent and serves as a liniment, but mix it with twice its quantity of kerosene.

Put insect powder and tobacco dust in the nests. Never pour grease in the nests. Clean them out every week.

SONGS OF SEMI-TROPIC AUTUMN.

BY ELIZA A. OTIS.

Within the sunshine of this autumn day
The broad-leaved palms are waving gracefully
The eucalyptus like a giant stands
Wrapping in its emerald robes the peepers
As they wander by the water's edge
Stirred by the gentle breeze, and sunbeams play
With their red berries, telling every one
As 'twere a rosy of patient of streams
Breathing her prayers while standing by the way.

And full of its infinite harmonies,
Of leaf and tree, and many breathing things,
With butterfly, and singing lark that flies
To the bright blue, where its glad song it flings
Into heaven's ear the day is bright and sweet
As if 'twere June with summer at her feet.

DECEMBER.

Ripe are the harvests, gay are the flowers,
Golden the days in this fair land of ours,
Buzzes the bee in the ear of November,
Light throbs the heart of our aged December:

'Round him he wraps his mantle of gold,
Woofing and smiling as he were not old;
June, I am sure, might be caught in his snare,
And, dainty May maiden, O have you a care;
Laughing he waits to music of his poses
And dreams:

Rarest of roses he wears on his breast,
And flashing with light his emerald vest,
And, ah! such bouquets in his button-hole shine,

And full are his stores of fruitage and wine;
And flashing with light the ashes he wears,
The ribbons of streams—with debonair airs,
Lightly he trips where the blossoms are sweet.

June's sky overhead, her grass at his feet;
Orbits fit 'round him, aquiver the day
With flashing of wings, and the sweet roundly.

Of birds that are singing as if it were May,
O, December! December! what wonder that June
Looking down from the skies finds her young heart atune

With December's.

Rev. Sam P. Jones.

Rev. Sam Jones, the great evangelist, writes: "My wife, who has been an invalid from NERVOUS SICK HEADACHE, has been entirely cured by six weeks' use of Dr. King's Royal Getmetur."

In three weeks three of my children were completely cured of Nasal Catarrh. It is like a great remedy."

GERMETUR presents an array of testimonials absolutely without a parallel in the history of medicine. It is endorsed by hundreds of our best-known people, and we are justified in saying that it is a positive cure for Catarrh, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Asthma, Bowel, Liver, Kidney and Bladder Diseases, Paralysis, Epilepsy, Erysipelas, Insomnia, Nervous Debility, Skin Diseases, and ALL GRAVE DISEASES.

It cleanses and purifies the blood, invigorates the stomach, tones up the general system, and thus brings health and happiness. It is not a nauseous compound, but is as pleasant to take as lemonade.

While society may be said to be taking a rest during the excitement of the closing days of the Presidential campaign, some people, nevertheless, find time to enjoy themselves. Quite a number of entertainments, of an extensive scale, are being arranged for the near future, but until after the election society circles will, in a measure, be somewhat dull.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY.
The Hotel Cummings was the scene of a delightful company last Tuesday evening, the occasion being the birthday anniversary of J. W. Gillette. So deftly had Mrs. Gillette perfected arrangements that her husband remained in ignorance of the happy company who were invited to do him honor upon his return home. The parlors and halls were brilliantly illuminated, and lovely flowers and plants graced every nook and corner. Music and conversation whiled the hours away till the guests were invited into the dining-parlor, where a repast was served, elegant and dainty in all its appointments. The guests being seated, Dr. Brodbeck advanced, with a few words of greeting, and presented the host with an elegant sterling silver match-case, the gift of the gentlemen present. Mr. Gillette responded feelingly, thanking the donors for this manifestation of kindly remembrance, and gave them the assurance he would get even with them for what they had done. So congenial were the guests and so handsomely were they entertained that time passed into the "wee sma' hours" before they returned to their homes, with many wishes for Mr. and Mrs. Gillette. Those who were invited were Dr. and Mrs. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Morrison, Dr. and Mrs. Munk, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forrester, Dr. and Mrs. Brodbeck, Mr. and Mrs. Van Alstine, William Knapp, the Misses Phillips, Carrie and Jean Brodbeck and Carrie Knapp.

HALLOWEEN PARTY.
Misses Edith and Fannie Barber, assisted by Miss Clara Smith, gave a Halloween party Monday evening at the residence of F. F. Barton, No. 2915 Figueroa street. The young ladies received their guests in costumes worn by their grandmothers twenty-five years ago, and with powdered hair, dressed high in puffs and curls, looked like quaint pictures of the maidens of yore. The house was beautifully decorated, and refreshments were served at 10:30 o'clock. Dancing and fortune telling in various ways were the principal amusements of the evening, and time flew all too fast for the merry lads and lasses present, who, in bidding their charming hostesses good-night, hoped the next Halloween might be spent in an equally pleasant way. Those present were Misses Katie Powell, Myrtle Murray, Maud and Jessie Richardson, Mabel Chaffee, Clara Merceau, Katherine McFarland, Helen Mundy, Maud Johnson, Edith Hemphill, Nettie Gowan, Fannie Nichols, Messrs. Walter Mundy, Ewing Jones, Harry Carr, Harold Braley, Carl Tufts, Jess Childress, George Hobbs, Leigh Bancroft, Ross Smith, Douglas Burnett, Malcolm Cleveland, Charlie Pointdexter and Wallace Barber.

AN ELEGANT RECEPTION.
An affair not soon to be forgotten by the twenty-four young people who participated in it was the reception given by Mrs. M. L. Carhart of Burbank, last Friday evening, to a gayally-ho party. After a charming ride, under a glowing moon, the company alighted at the spacious residence, which was all luminous from tower to base. At the entrance they were met with the perfume of flowers which literally lined the broad halls. Oriental chandeliers and gorgeous hangings gave a rich background to the dazzling effect. The halls alone would delight the heart of any connoisseur, with their profusion of alabaster, Italian marble, Japanese bronze and statuary. Masses of dragons coiled about vases six feet in height, were deposited at unsuspected corners, and at the entrance of the reception rooms, bearing a wilderness of curly caryatids. Among the choice engravings and etchings on the walls was discovered one of the seven great pictures of the world, as Doreus styles it, "Paul Potter's Bull," an original etching made by himself from his own painting.

Before a towering clock, reaching to the ceiling and eloquent with chiming, stand two great bronzes, personifying Hercules, one by Boissan, dated 1780, and another by Dunthorn, dated 1780. The first reception-room is a museum of royal souvenirs—golden candelabras, clocks and plaques of old Vienna and Sèvres of priceless value. The central piece and glory of the room is a table once belonging to Marie Antoinette, clustered with medallions by French artists. A plaque by Greuze, painted in 1781, is especially conspicuous for its beauty. The largest reception-room contains a wilderness of Italian workmanship, tables and chandeliers of ebony, inlaid with ivory and precious stones, carved mahogany, solid metal chandeliers, Dresden vases, etc.

The whole proved a delightful study to the happy party, and their attention was divided between the artistic display and the ringing of "the light fantastic toe" in the spacious dancehall.

Those who participated in this memorable event were the following:
Mr. and Mrs. Earl Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. A. Off, Miss Soule, Miss L. Forrester, Miss Julia Off, F. Forrester, W. Teale, Miss H. Sanbourne, Miss L. Pinkham, D. Sale, F. Notman, T. McCrea, Miss M. Leutweiler, Miss C. Longstreet, Miss M. Longstreet, Messrs. Ballard, Aiken, Huntley, Beckwith, Miss Beckwith, Charles Off.

AN ENJOYABLE SOCIAL.
One of the most enjoyable socials of the season was the Halloween social last Monday evening at Mrs. Hartwell's, given to the Immanuel Christian Endeavor Society by Miss Hartwell and Miss Healy, chairman of the Social Committee.

On the lower and upper verandas were two huge jack-o'-lanterns to light the way. The house was beautifully decorated, the dining-room, where the conventional Halloween refreshments were served, being very elaborate and lovely.

Mrs. Dr. Salisbury presided at the coffee-urn, and the young ladies took turns at serving lemonade from a large punch-bowl.

Much interest was manifested in the two large, rich cakes, one containing a lady's ring, the other a gentleman's pin.

About one hundred and fifty were present, and, what with Halloween games, fortune-telling, etc., enjoyed themselves to the utmost.

SURPRISE PARTY.
A most enjoyable surprise party was tendered Miss Lottie Chalfant at her home at Hotel Cummings, by "Our Santa Monica crowd" last Saturday evening. The young folks brought musicians with them, and the dancing hall having been decorated and prepared, they "tripped the light fantastic" until a late hour, after which refreshments were served. The chap-erons were Mrs. King and Mrs. Roth. Among those present were: Misses Ethel King, Edith King, Hallie Loomis, Rae Cohn, Grace Heczekiah, Lottie Chalfant, Louise Dohs, Madge McAllister, Bertha Roth, Gileta Workman, Laura Workman, Messrs. Merle, Manning, Willie Manning, Dr. Van Note, Harry Routh, Arthur Smith, Russell Taylor, Roy Loomis, Eddie Zobelein, Glenn Edmonds, George Miles.

NOTES AND PERSONALS.
Miss Kate Spence has returned from her visit to her old home in Ireland.

Mrs. Barron of San Francisco is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Stewart of West Thirtieth street, and will remain till after her sister's marriage on the 14th inst.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Beal and their son Charles very delightfully entertained a small party of Los Angeles friends last Wednesday evening at their Pasadena home, "Ramona Vista." The guests, who included Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Thomas, Miss Grace Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Wyman, Mr. and Mrs. North and Miss Minnie North went out on the Terminal and were met by the host and taken to the handsomely decorated suburban home, where a delightful evening was passed. Mr. and Mrs. Beal have recently come here to reside from Minneapolis, where Mr. Beal had one of the finest and most artistic photograph studios in the Northwest.

The ladies of the Logan Relief Corps will give an entertainment at the G. A. R. Hall, No. 612 Spring street, Wednesday evening, for the benefit of their relief fund. The programme is an interesting one. Two excellent plays will be presented by the Columbia Dramatic Club. Recitations, music, etc.

Last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Sheldon entertained at their pleasant new home at No. 2351 Scarf street.

Among those present were Rev. and Mrs. Bert E. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. George Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Day, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ewing, Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Sheldon, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Miller, Mrs. Elva M. Crippen, S. E. Goodenow, Mr. and Mrs. D. Carper, Mr. and Mrs. Bardwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. D. Mathews have returned from their extended trip East and are settled again in their home on West Seventh street.

Lodge No. 55, Ancient Order of United Workmen, are to give one of their delightful socials on Thursday evening at G. A. R. Hall, No. 612 South Spring street.

Last Tuesday evening the benefit ball given at Illinois Hall by Prof. Payne and the Kammermeyer orchestra was attended by sixty couples, and $30 was realized from it, which will be given to those most in need. The orchestra donated six pieces and rendered excellent dance music.

The Arion Social Club was entertained by Miss Carrie G. Maharg Monday evening at the residence of C. A. Luckenbach, on Angelino Heights.

All Halloween games were indulged in and tricks played upon unsuspecting victims. Among the guests were Misses French, Cutbert, Stevenson, M. Hall, Maharg, Subers and Rogers, and Messrs. Haines, Chipron, Campbell, George Derby, Frank Derby, Morgan and Schultz.

Miss Celia Roberts is spending a few weeks in visiting at the home of her uncle, Mr. J. B. Roberts, in San Francisco.

THE EVOLUTION OF A TRAVELING MAN.
He Does Good by Stealth and Blushes to Find It Fame, Fortune, Etc.

While there are some people who are manifestly unfitted for any earthly thing but to encumber the earth and whose lives are a series of disastrous failures and disappointments, there are others just as obviously born to do a certain work and who do it. They may struggle against fate, as the others do, but eventually it drives them into the avocations for which they were cut out.

The experience of George Simpson is a case in point. He has been for several years a traveling salesman. When a boy, in San Francisco, he was a sufferer from a peculiarly virulent case of catarrh. His father took him out of the commercial college he was attending and sent him to Mexico. An old Mexican woman, observing his distress and taking a fancy to the lad, set about curing him, and did cure him effectually within a few weeks, so that he has never suffered a moment with the disease since. She did it with a decoction of herbs and cognac brandy, which she taught him to mix, and which he used both as a douche and a gargle.

In later years he prescribed the same remedy for friends and chance acquaintances he happened to meet, and in every case, so far as he was afterward able to find out, a perfect cure. In from three to six weeks, was the result. This went on till the number had reached, perhaps, seventy-five or eighty. But the idea of charging anything, or making the preparation of the medicine a business, never occurred to him till suggested recently in a way that it is the purpose of this article to relate.

Mr. J. H. Rice is superintendent of the farm at the Soldiers' Home, near Santa Monica. He heard, accidentally, of Simpson's success in the treatment of catarrh, and wrote to him asking what he would take to treat him and guarantee a cure in a fixed time, no money to be paid till a cure was accomplished beyond any question or doubt. Simpson replied, by mail, that he would do it inside of four weeks for $100, the money to be placed in bank and its disposal left to any disinterested and capable physician who might be chosen to examine the patient after four weeks' use of the medicine. These terms, substantially, were accepted. Mr. Rice was furnished with the remedy, and began its use. Within two weeks he came to town, hunted Simpson up, and made him a present of $50. A week later he sent for him to come down to the Home, and insisted on giving him $100 more, at the same time urging him to open an office in Los Angeles and let the public know what he could do. The fourth week he came in town again and formally declared himself perfectly cured, and in his gratitude gave Simpson another sum of money, to pay, as he said, "the rent for a good office." He is a well man, after seventeen years of the worst kind of catarrh, and the outlay of thousands of dollars in the way of doctors' bills and so-called remedies. He has taken treatment of the most eminent physicians in the United States, and specialists without number, spending in this way over $3000 in the past two years alone, and never before received the slightest benefit. Naturally, he is very grateful, and is doing all he can to encourage Simpson to put his medicine on the market. So, Simpson has opened an office at 409 1/2 South Spring street, and from this on will supply the remedy to all who apply to him for it. He is getting together a number of testimonials from the persons he has already cured, and in a little time will be able to show a record that will be unimpeachable. If he has, as he believes he has, a sure cure for catarrh, his fortune is made.
